Roosevelt home in New Brunswick

Pearson, LBJ Will Confer At Campobello

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson will meet President Johnson shortly after sunrise at Campobello Sunday.

The war in Viet Nam and inflation, will head the list of items to be discussed in a private meeting at the summer home of the late American president Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The initiative for the talks came from the president who has planned a trip to the New England states for some time. A few days ago Mr. Johnson decided he would like to visit Campobello which is in New Brunswick.

Prime Minister Pearson told a news conference Wednesday he "welcomes the opportunity" to discuss international issues with Mr. Johnson.

"No agenda has been set. But we will talk about all the things that are of interest to us... not just those of bilateral interest but international affairs generally," he said.

About a year ago a similar discussion between the two men, in which Mr. Pearson suggested the U.S. pause in its bombing of North Viet Nam, was reported to have angered the president.

Mr. Pearson still holds the view that a halt of the bombing... at least for a while... would be a valuable step towards a negotiated settlement.

Although Canada has expressed broad general support for the American position in Viet Nam, it "regretted" the American decision to bomb oil depots in Hanoi and Haiphong.

The two men will likely discuss the recent visits of top Canadian diplomat Chester Ronning to Hanoi.

Mr. Pearson said Wednesday that Rhodesia might also be discussed, but it would not be a major topic. Both men will likely talk about the forthcoming session of the United Nations, particularly in relation to the admission of Red China.

Inflation is one of the most difficult domestic problems facing the two leaders. They may seek common actions to combat it.

In recent months there has been considerable debate concerning the influence of American capital in Canada. Both countries have set guidelines for good corporate behavior.

President Johnson was last in Canada in 1964 when he ratified the Columbia River development project near Vancouver.

Officially the two leaders are marking the second anniversary of the establishment of the international Campobello Park in the late President Roosevelt's memory.

They will lay a cornerstone in the park's visitors' pavilion.

Lady Bird Johnson will also be present.

Pearson Pledge in Rail Crisis:

OTTAWA WILL STEP IN

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson promised Wednesday that the federal government will intervene directly in the nation's critical rail dispute before the workers actually walk off their jobs.

Playing his hand as coolly as a Mississippi gambler, the prime minister refused to detail the tactics the cabinet has agreed upon to handle the dispute. (See also Page 8.)

But he promised the action would be swift, decisive and within the law. He expressed hope the strike threat will be settled without an emergency session of Parliament.

VIEWS EXCHANGED

Mr. Pearson met late Wednesday with a group of union leaders "for an exchange of views." A short time before, the leaders had held a longer meeting with Labor Minister Nicholson.

At the same time Transport Minister Pickersill was dining with CNR president Donald Gordon, CPR president Ian Sinclair and N. R. Crump, chairman of the board of the CPR.

Mr. Pearson told a press conference after a lengthy cabinet session Wednesday that the government "is doing its best to prevent a strike." But he added that if necessary it would call Parliament to settle the dispute.

NOT SITTING IDLE

"There has been no sitting idly by on the part of the government... When the time comes for mediation the government will do it..."

"We will get in touch with the unions before a strike occurs and find out what can be done to avoid one..." he said.

Mr. Pearson indicated he thinks the time for the government to intervene is that short interval between when the unions renounce the conciliation board reports and call for a strike vote, and they actually walk off the jobs.

Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The federal government is considering several alternative methods of dealing with the impending rail strike which threatens to cripple the nation's economy.

Prime Minister Pearson could lay down the law to both sides of the dispute, then appoint a mediator to settle the differences. This could be done without recalling Parliament.

Once the full strike begins, it is certain the government will recall Parliament. Experts here feel the word would go out within 24 hours of a full walkout.

TWO CHOICES

The government would then have two choices:

● It could produce legislation ordering the men back to work for a fixed period — say 60 or 90 days — with negotiations to continue in the meantime.

● It could order the men to return to work and appoint an arbitrator whose recommendations would be binding on both sides.

There are precedents for both actions. In 1950 the St. Laurent government imposed compulsory arbitration after transportation was halted for nine days.

COMPLICATIONS

In 1960 Labor Minister Starr introduced a continuous Railway Operations Act which declared a strike moratorium from December until May 16. A negotiated settlement was reached May 5 without compulsory legislation.

But there are complications with this rail dispute. Workers involved in the operating trades are demanding job security in an age of technological change. Salaries can be negotiated; but the kind of job protection the trades are demanding require a far-reaching government policy to deal with automation.

NOT THIS FALL

Mr. Pearson said the government is studying the Freedman Report which recommended that government must accept the principle that management bears a heavy responsibility to

Live Shells Litter Scrapyard

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal police said Wednesday they have discovered some 600 mortar and artillery shells stacked in a scrapyard belonging to the Alert Steel Co. in the west-end St. Henri district.

Many of the shells, Second World War missiles were live, and at least two were fused.

Police said the discovery was made three days ago when a child was reported to have cut his hand badly while playing in the scrapyard.

Police have learned from the owners and former owners of the scrapyard that as far as they can tell "the shells have been lying there for years."

'Hot' Capsules Found, Lost

GLENDALE, Calif. (UPI) — A vial which apparently contained radioactive cobalt was found Wednesday by two men cleaning up a weed-infested lot here, police reported.

The radioactive substance, shielded in the capped, lead bottle, posed no danger to the community or passersby, police stressed.

Lt. R. R. Buchner said none of the radioactive material spilled from the bottle.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Public Health Service said Wednesday it had launched an all-out search for a missing radium capsule.

The capsule contains radium capable of inflicting "severe radiation burns," the PHIS said.

Bomb Found At U.S. Air Base

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — A home-made black powder bomb was found Wednesday in a filing cabinet at the headquarters building of Offutt Air Force Base, command post of the Strategic Air Command.

The crudely-made device was dismantled and shipped immediately to the office of special investigation in Washington.

Troops Hit Protesters

PORT CHICAGO, Calif. (UPI) — Several wild melees erupted Wednesday as rifle-carrying U.S. Marines bumped, shoved and knocked anti-war demonstrators from a highway entrance to Concord Naval Weapons Station.

The incidents occurred after marines dragged and pushed single demonstrators from the highway as napalm bomb trucks approached.

In Atlanta, meantime, soldiers forcibly ejected about 20 Negroes who infiltrated a group of army recruits and staged a shouting demonstration. Several of the demonstrators carried signs, including one which read:

"No Viet Cong ever called me nigger."

Heir Stands With Martial Mao

HONG KONG (UPI) — Mao Tse-tung donned a military uniform today and made one of his rare public appearances, taking part in a Peking rally in support of the Chinese Communist party and its policies, Radio Peking reported.

Observers said it was the first time in years he had worn a uniform, perhaps since the guerrilla warfare days.

Standing beside Mao, according to the broadcast, was Defence Minister Lin Biao, tending to confirm recent reports that he is the heir apparent to the party chairmanship.

Diefenbaker:

Forces Poll Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Wednesday that armed forces traditions cannot be swept aside by a simple edict of a minister intent on glorifying his own image.

No action on unification should be taken until Parliament itself had acted on the matter.

The defence department had recently discovered that "you can't pull the pants off the navy without having some parliamentary approval."

A headlong rush toward unification had started after Parliament had adjourned. This now had been halted.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said he understands the armed forces will get a 14-per-cent pay increase Oct. 1.

Perrault, Strachan Open Fire

'Government Sleek, Fat and Rich'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Provincial New Democratic Party leader Robert Strachan said Wednesday his party will combat inflation and seek increased government control of industry if elected in the Sept. 12 British Columbia election.

In North Vancouver, Liberal leader Ray Perrault promised party workers an "agenda for a new generation."

Mr. Perrault was nominated by acclamation to represent the party in the new riding of North Vancouver-Capilano.

He told the crowd of about 150, the Social Credit government has grown fat and sleek in office.

Mr. Perrault said the Liberal target in the campaign is — "A government grown sleek, fat and rich in office over the last 14 years; a government saturated with arrogance bred by 14 years in power. Our target is a government which tolerates frightful conflicts of interest... whose remarkably successful fund-raiser moonlight as a key man on the B.C. Hydro board of directors, the ferry system, and in several other key posts of influence."

He said the Liberals' "agenda for a new generation" would implement reform in industry and trade, social welfare, child care, old age care, fitness and youth.

Two Parties for Bennett?

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett has the backing of two parties in the Sept. 12 provincial election—the one he leads now and—unofficially—the one he used to belong to.

It has long been suspected the Social Credit party picks up support from Progressive-Conservative die-hards, who are unable to express their own political beliefs in the legislature because they have not elected a single member in the past 12 years.

The premier himself said Wednesday that party pollsters have signified he will get more support from the Tories in this election than ever before.

Officers of B.C.'s leaderless Progressive-Conservative party will meet in Vancouver Saturday to decide what constitutes the Tories will contest in the election.

The meeting was delayed until the other parties had named most of their candidates, so the Conservatives could assess which ridings they would have the best chances of winning.

Tory president Stuart Fleming grudgingly admitted Wednesday that a lot of Tories will probably be voting for Social Credit this year.

He was uncertain at this time

how many candidates his party will field but he said Tories often voted Social when they have no candidate of their own.

"It's entirely up to them... but I think it has happened," Mr. Fleming said when asked point blank whether some Tories will be supported by Tories.

HAMILTON (CP) — Eleven thousand members of the United Steelworkers of America will start voting Monday night on whether to accept a new contract with the Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. that would give them higher basic wage rates than those in the U.S. steel industry.

U.S. Casualty Lists Like United Nations

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated 24 non-U.S. citizens have been killed while serving in U.S. forces in Viet Nam, U.S. defence department records indicated Wednesday.

An unofficial check disclosed possible, although not definite, alien casualties from Canada, Yugoslavia, Colombia, Jamaica, The Netherlands, Switzerland, Venezuela, Ireland, Costa Rica, Haiti, West Germany and the Philippines.

Reserves Eligible

Selected Men May Get Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted solidly Wednesday to give President Johnson standby authority he did not seek to call thousands of young reservists and guardsmen to duty, as individuals, for possible use in Viet Nam.

The 66-to-21 vote tying the provision into the annual defence money bill came after hours of heated debate.

Senator Richard B. Russell (Dem.-Ga.), floor manager for the $38,000,000,000 annual defence money bill, strongly defended the proposed rider as a method of attaining "equality of service" between draftees and volunteers and the now-exempt reservists.

Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr., (Dem.-N.C.), a member of the Senate armed services committee, contended that lifting individuals from trained army national guard or reserve units might lessen their effectiveness.

Russell, chairman of the armed services committee, said McNamara and President Johnson had decided against mobilizing entire companies or divisions of the reserves.

This probably was wise, Russell continued, noting that if a guard or reserve company is called in a community it often takes away "several hundred young leaders, including men who have served in the Second World War, Korea and probably some in Viet Nam."

Foreign Reporters Welcome at War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leonard H. Marks, chief of the U.S. Information Agency, defended Wednesday the agency's action in paying the fare of foreign correspondents to visit Viet Nam and called it "an excellent program."

Marks contended before the Senate foreign relations committee that there was no secrecy about the program and that it was carried out under the agency's mission "of trying to see that full and objective information regarding the Viet Nam situation is available to newspapers, radio and television outlets abroad."

"We have found that in some instances reporting has been based on lack of information or on misinformation," he said. "The best way to correct this situation is to enable reporters to go to the scene of the story, ask questions and see for themselves what is happening."

Marks was rebuked by Chairman J. W. Fulbright for comparing this program with the Fulbright student exchange program.

Fulbright, author of the exchange program, said he represented Marks trying to make such an analogy.

Three Canadian correspondents were among those whose fares were paid to Viet Nam.

Cong Pick Carnival For Day of Death

SAIGON (AP)—Viet Cong terrorists killed an estimated 21 Vietnamese Wednesday night in bold strikes close to Saigon and at a pre-election carnival in the old imperial capital of Hue.

Around Saigon, the targets of the terrorists were a militia platoon, a U.S. motor pool and a military tent city guarding the capital's main gasoline storage tanks. Fifteen Vietnamese were reported killed in these attacks.

PLAYING CARDS

In Hue, about 40 miles northwest of Da Nang, a blast blew in the tin roof of a shed where Vietnamese were playing cards. Six were reported killed and as many as 50 wounded.

Earlier in the day, a U.S. marine F-8 Crusader, faltered on taking off from Da Nang and plunged into the village of Hoa Cuong, killing at least 26 villagers. More than 20 were wounded.

The pilot ejected after his engine failed and escaped serious injury.

Futility Now Spirit of Washington

By JOSEPH KRAFT, from Washington

The prevailing spirit in Washington these days is not liberal or conservative, Republican or Democratic, presidential or legislative, national or international. The prevailing spirit is the spirit of futility.

Viet Nam, of course, offers the obvious example. The policy of escalation, officially in force now for 18 months, has led the United States to put more than 250,000 troops on the Asian mainland and to bomb Viet Nam on the scale of the Second World War raids. But what is there to show for these efforts?

North Viet Nam, even by the testimony of Gen. William Westmoreland, shows no signs of bucking. Most important of all, in Peking, where the real battle for a peaceful Asia is being fought, the hard-line Maoists, reinforced no doubt by the tension generated in Viet Nam, have won a new political victory.

Given these results it would seem appropriate to consider at least a different approach. But a proud President Johnson, far from indicating that another course might be better, does not even make room to turn around. Indeed, at the ranch last week, he only dug himself deeper with the old bromide: "The most important factor now is our will . . ."

In the matter of inflation, the administration seems even more at sea. The defence of price levels that it mounted in 1962 and 1963 was based on the experience of the creeping inflation that followed the Korean war. It depended upon gold deposits that would be followed by the big corporations and big unions in fields such as steel and autos which had generated the inflation of the 1950s.

But this time it is plain that the chief pressure comes in precisely those sectors where the market reigns virtually unaffected by the policy of the big firms and large unions. The big price increases, so far have come in agriculture, the domain of the individual farmer; in services, where doctors, shoemakers, barbers and tailors do the pricing; and in construction, a field dominated by small firms.

The administration, having armed for the wrong fight, now does not know how to change its tactics. Since it refuses to think about the one thing that could make a big difference, Viet Nam, its efforts are confined to the claim that inflation is really not so bad after all.

Many of Johnson's critics have suggested new approaches or different ratios in the mix of national resources. But plainly they have lost heart.

For example, the president's liberal critics in the Senate have now ceased to plug the Viet Nam issue. Instead, they have reverted to a kind of flanking operation on small issues—whittling down his foreign aid program and his recommendations for campaign financing and unemployment insurance.

The Republicans present perhaps the most futile spectacle of all. They have been handed a superb issue—that the Democrats do not know how to make peace in Viet Nam.

But no leading Republican has yet grasped the matter unambiguously. And many, like former Vice President Richard Nixon, keep throwing the issue away with new demands for escalation.

In sum, while the administration has no good answers to any of the nation's most serious problems, the critics are too divided to make a serious dent. The spirit of futility is so pervasive that it has even made opposition seem futile.

Strategy Based on Morale Findings

Secret Report LBJ's Guide

By CARL T. ROWAN
From Washington

The defence department has denied the existence of a widely-publicized "study" asserting that the Viet Nam war could last another eight years unless the U.S. troop level is raised to 750,000.

What definitely does exist, I can report exclusively, is a study made for the joint chiefs of staff which shows a remarkable decline in the morale of the Communist Viet Cong forces over the last year.

This secret study, which lies at the heart of President Johnson's present strategy, suggests that the Communists probably cannot sustain the war for eight years.

The study, just completed and read most carefully by Johnson, indicates that the Communist forces already are disillusioned, often hungry and sick, fearful of direct military encounters and increasingly doubtful of a Viet Cong victory.

The study is based on interviews with more than 800 Viet Cong defectors and captured soldiers, many of them army regulars from North Viet Nam. The validity of the interviews reportedly was checked against information obtained from scores of captured Viet Cong documents.

The study concludes that, as of June this year, only 20 per cent of the captured and defecting Viet Cong believed that the Communists will win, 60 per cent said the Saigon forces would triumph and 20 per cent were uncertain.

A year earlier, similar interviews showed 65 per cent of the captured Communists saying the Viet Cong would win, only 25 per cent expecting Saigon would win and 10 per cent uncertain.

The recent report points out, however, that "discipline and control among main force units is still effective." The Viet Cong still have good intelligence, including a capacity to intercept U.S. and South Vietnamese radio messages. The report does not suggest an immediate collapse of the Viet Cong military effort.

But the interviews and captured documents indicate that desertions from guerrilla units have risen sharply and that problems of recruitment are so serious that some Communist units are 30 to 40 per cent under strength.

President Johnson's personal strategy in Viet Nam is said to be based on reports of interviews with such men as this Viet Cong fighter, captured in battle in Viet Nam highlands.

This would appear to conflict with reports out of Saigon last week that total Viet Cong forces now number 282,000, or 32,000 more than the estimate of last Jan. 1.

some Communist units, including North Vietnamese regular units in the highlands.

The study says lack of food is a major reason for sagging morale. Agricultural output is down in Viet Cong-controlled areas because many farmers have fled, because of herbicide attacks by South Vietnamese forces, because taxes are so high the people won't produce and because the Viet Cong cannot transport food where it is most needed.

One captured commander of a Viet Cong unit said morale problems increased greatly in his unit when he reduced the rice ration from two and a half cups a day to two cups.

It is this study that reportedly has convinced President Johnson that, as long as Hanoi refuses peace talks, he has no alternative to continuing the bombing and the military pressure. The hope is that sooner, rather than later, the Communists' morale will descend past the breaking point.

Population Transfer Part of Master Design

By ROBERT ELEGANT
From Hong Kong

Despite agriculture flourishing and industry stalled by maladministration and armed attacks, Hanoi is striving to transform North Viet Nam from a normal nation into a vast military base for the conquest of Indochina.

The Communists have just celebrated the transfer of the millionth unenthusiastic settler from the rich Red River delta to the heavily forested, pestilential highlands which make up four-fifths of the nation's area.

The settlement of such a large portion of the population of North Viet Nam—intended to relieve one of the world's most congested areas, as well as to disperse the population for military reasons—took five years. It reveals the extended view the Communists take of their crusade to "liberate" South Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

The emergency evacuation of cities like the Hanoi-Haiphong complex and the enrolment of every able-bodied man and woman in militia units is proceeding with absolute priority.

President Ho Chi-minh ordered mobilization of reserves and civilians in a dramatic announcement just a month ago, when he swore to continue the war for two decades if necessary.

Lack of manpower and the disruption of communications have resulted in an inflation of commodity prices ranging from 100 to 300 per cent over the past two years. Inability to meet industrial goals because of shortages of both raw materials and machinery has forced significant cutbacks in the overall economic plan for 1966.

Floods, droughts, plagues of insects and American attacks—all reacting together to aggravate each other's effects—have taken a heavy toll of such basic crops as rice, sweet potatoes, manioc and maize.

Emergency mobilization seeks to provide additional labor for both economic and military tasks in a country of 18,000,000 which is hard pressed for manpower. "Voluntary" enrolment of men, women and youths at the enlistment bureau set up in all villages has become the single most pervasive feature of life in North Viet Nam this summer.

Communist publicists draw a picture of an entire nation rushing to the recruiting stations and demanding immediate enrolment to "serve the nation."

The fundamental current, continuing since 1961, is the transfer of people from the traditional centre of population in the Red River delta.

That mass migration has three chief purposes: to open up desperately needed additional agricultural land, to secure the western and southern highlands

If you must buy something safer than the Toyota Crown, buy this.

Have gun, will travel.

One of the safest ways to travel along a crowded highway today would be in a tank.

Because a tank is heavy. It weighs 59,000 lbs.

A tank has a rugged chassis. And heavy, thick body panels.

A tank's suspension is designed so that it won't break if you happen to run over a pothole.

And a tank simply won't let you enter drag races, because it isn't designed to be a drag racer.

If you get into a collision driving a tank, chances are, it wouldn't be you who came off worst.

But, even though you can't use a tank on the highway, wouldn't it be great if you could get some of the safety features of a tank into a car?

That's what the engineers and designers at Toyota thought when they created the Toyota Crown.

They made the Toyota Crown heavy. It weighs 2,900 lbs.

They built it on a rugged chassis. Bolted to a unitized body made with steel 50% heavier than in most North American cars.

They put it on a suspension that's heavier and stronger than the suspensions on most half-ton pick-ups.

They gave it an incredibly strong, incredibly dependable 4-cylinder motor that will only do 85 mph. And only cruise reliably at 80 mph.

But because Toyota are car makers and not tank makers, they didn't just stop at putting a lot of tank safety features in Toyota Crown. They added ideas that you couldn't buy in a tank if you wanted.

Like pleasant styling. (The Toyota Crown looks more like a North American car than any other import).

A luxurious, quiet, ride. (Track and Traffic magazine commented: "One of the outstanding features of the Toyota Crown is its ride. It is one of the most comfortable riding cars we have ever tested").

And economy. The Toyota Crown gets over 28 miles to the gallon in city driving. It seldom needs oil between changes. And because it's incredibly strong, repairs are incredibly cheap.

And seat belts. Padded dash. Full-length, heavy-pile carpeting. Choice of three great transmissions.

However, if you must buy something safer than a Toyota Crown, write your nearest tank-dealer. And don't be surprised when he tells you that the price is around $125,000.

But if you'd like a great automobile with all the safety and all the luxury of the Toyota Crown, see your nearest CMI Dealer listed below.

And don't be surprised when the son of a gun tells you the price is just $2,598.*

Will travel.

Diefenbaker Urges Action To Ease Tight Money

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker Tuesday called for government action on several fronts to curb inflation and ease a tight money situation he says is hurting small businesses.

At a morning press conference, the first since his return to the capital from a month-long vacation — Mr. Diefenbaker:

● Charged Prime Minister Pearson with setting off a "wage explosion" by interventions in recent labor disputes which resulted in large wage increases.

● Called for a federal-provincial conference aimed at forming a common approach to wages, prices and inflation.

● Demanded that Mr. Pearson issue a "call to arms" to Canadians by issuing a statement containing guidelines to deal with the economic situation.

● Blamed high interest rates for creating a tight-money situation that prevents small businessmen from obtaining loans to finance plant expansion.

'Explosion' Charged In Wages

Mr. Diefenbaker said a New Democratic Party proposal to impose price ceilings is impossible because the federal government lacks the jurisdiction.

But he said the 11-per-cent sales tax on building materials must be removed and more credit should be made available to owners of small businesses.

He said there is a strong feeling in the country that the government's intervention in the Quebec longshoremen's strike and the threatened strike by St. Lawrence Seaway workers accelerated the danger of inflation.

"The wage explosion was fanned by the timid, diplomatic action of the present government," he said.

The Opposition leader also proposed that the government introduce legislation at once to abolish capital punishment except for the murders of police and security officers and "gangland slaugthers."

Although the Commons recently voted down a resolution that would have abolished the death penalty for all kinds of murder, Mr. Diefenbaker said a measure with these provisos would win wide support.

'HALF LOAF BETTER'
Since the vote the "government should be in" when deciding whether to commute a death sentence to life imprisonment.

"Personally, I believe something must be done," he said. "Half a loaf is better than nothing at all."

Union Debates Strike Timing

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials of the 22,000-member Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers met Wednesday to discuss the timing of a nation-wide railway strike while some 90 union members jumped the gun by walking off their jobs at a CNR yard here and others threatened strikes in Windsor and Hamilton, Ont.

Union spokesman J. A. Pelletier said that during the meeting CBRT president W. J. Smith invested a bargaining team with authority to set the official strike date.

DATE NEXT WEEK
This date will not be announced until after a meeting Monday with negotiating teams for the other two union groups which represent an additional 78,000 non-operating railway employees, he said.

The meeting also voted unanimously to reject a conciliation board report tabled in the Commons Thursday by Justice J. C. A. Cameron of Ottawa recommending a wage increase of 40 cents an hour for the union's members, Mr. Pelletier said.

The brotherhood members, who now make an average wage of $2.13 an hour, are demanding a 50-cent hourly raise.

Mr. Pelletier said union representatives were sent late Wednesday to the CNR's Pointe St. Charles yards here in an attempt to persuade the 90 striking workers to return to work.

The men walked off their jobs at noon to protest delays in reaching a contract with the railway.

Some 200 members of Local 185 in Windsor voted Tuesday night to go on strike at midnight Thursday and a union official said reports indicate workers may also walk off in Hamilton.

WAIT FOR DATE
Mr. Pelletier said union representatives will continue to urge the men to stay on their jobs and to wait until an official strike date is set.

The CBRT, whose members voted overwhelmingly earlier this year in favor of a strike, bargain separately from the other two non-op groups — the shop crafts and the "residual" union group — which consist of 15 unions, now conducting a mailed strike vote of the 78,000 members.

short time these stocks would run out.

Every section of the economy would suffer.

Delivery of new model cars, for instance, would be held up. Farm equipment would not reach the farmers, lumber and coal shipments, vital to so many sections of the economy, would also halt.

And of course, the showpiece of the Centennial celebrations — Expo '67 would be hit fast and hard.

Expo depends on trains for a great bulk of its building materials and equipment.

Meanwhile, the post office department is prepared to slap an embargo on second, third and fourth class mail if railworkers go on strike.

But the embargo will not likely affect most homeowners or businesses seriously at first.

A spokesman for the post office said all first class mail up to eight ounces is flown in Canada anyway so would continue to be accepted. Mail over the eight-ounce limit would be accepted if prepared at air packet rate.

REGIONAL SLOWDOWN
The embargoes would hit newspapers, magazines, and mail order and direct sales material first, he said.

But the embargo will not likely affect most homeowners or businesses seriously at first.

Veteran MLA Sidelined

DAWSON CREEK (C.P.) — Stanley Carnell, the Social Credit MLA who held the Peace River South seat for the last 10 years, lost his bid Wednesday night for nomination as a candidate in the Sept. 12 provincial election.

Instead, a large turnout of Social Credit supporters chose Don Phillips, a 44-year-old Dawson Creek businessman, by a decisive 224-156 margin.

The 63-year-old Carnell, a former newspaper editor, was first elected to the Legislature Sept. 19, 1956 and was returned in the 1960 and 1963 elections.

Supporters of Mr. Phillips believe age was the deciding factor in his successful bid for the nomination.

Langford Curtails Permits

Burning permits in the Langford area are being greatly curtailed until the fire hazard is reduced.

The forest service has cancelled all permits, and the Langford fire department will not issue permits until a personal inspection of the burning area is made by a member of the department.

The areas inspected will have to be 100 per cent safe before issuing a permit, said Deputy Fire Chief Vern Edwards. No more permits will be issued over the phone.

The last couple of weeks, he said, the fire department has answered at least one fire call a day. The hazard is moderately high in the area.

No open fires in Langford district are allowed without the fire department's permission.

French Murder Mystery

Main Columnist, Victoria
Thursday, August 18, 1966

Just Like Agatha Christie

CORBELL, France (UPI) — Police are investigating a murder mystery that had all the earmarks of an Agatha Christie thriller.

Anton, Przewozny, 50, a farmhand, was found Tuesday murdered inside a room whose door was locked from the inside.

Six people were on the farm at the time when Przewozny's body was found.

AID OF STICK
One of the six, hearing cries from Przewozny's room, found the door locked from the inside.

A nail pushed inside the keyhole enabled the key to fall on the floor and it was then slipped under the door with the aid of a stick.

An autopsy disclosed the victim had died as a result of nine blows to the skull and face. Przewozny did not smoke but an ash tray full of butts was found in his room.

The murder weapon was a rifle belonging to Przewozny. The killer could have fled only by the window. But the window is more than 15 feet above the ground and police did not find any footprints on the ground.

Grass Blaze Ties Up Firemen

About 1,500 feet of fire hose was caused by children playing action of several high school and younger children who helped the firemen run hose to the scene.

"The danger of this type of fire is tying up a crew for such a long time," said Saanich Lieut. C. A. Button.

"Some other truck from another area would have to attend a more serious fire if we were called at the time." Lieut. Button praised the

Alliance Must Raise Sights Higher—LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called Wednesday for the economic integration of Latin America and a united drive to raise living standards. In what was described by high U.S. government officials as an attempt to apply a "second-stage booster" to the U.S.-supported Alliance for Progress aid program for Latin America, Johnson declared "the alliance must set new sights."

Several months ago, in a visit to Mexico, Johnson proposed a meeting of hemisphere chiefs of state. He gave no clue on a possible meeting date in a speech Wednesday on the 15th anniversary of the alliance, though the target date is understood to be early December.

SOME PRIORITIES
Officials described the president's speech as a major one aimed at helping prepare a possible agenda for the Hemisphere summit. In it Johnson listed some priorities to consider in the years ahead. He said:

"The question is whether progress lies ahead in unity or isolation. Our sister republics in Latin America must decide that question for themselves. For our part, we believe that effective unity is vital to the needs of expanding populations."

KEY AREAS
Johnson also listed education, agriculture and arms limitations as areas for priority action.

Johnson noted that the hemisphere program for reform and economic development had as its goal a 2.5-per-cent increase in the average Latin American's income.

Now, the president said, the growth rate is larger than that and in the future "annual per capita growth rates should increase to the range of four to six per cent."

Cutback Denied By GM

DETROIT (AP) — A General Motors spokesman said Wednesday the firm plans to turn out more passenger cars between now and the end of the year than it did in the initial run of new models a year ago.

The comment came in the wake of widely-circulated reports that GM would be cutting down on its production pace when the 1967 models start coming off the assembly lines.

Taxes Climb

South Africans Hit

CAPE TOWN (Reuters) — South Africa's Finance Minister Eben Dönges announced Wednesday a five-per-cent increase in income tax on individuals and higher duties on liquor, cigarettes, cars and luxury goods.

Introducing his budget in the House of Assembly, the minister also announced a five-per-cent surcharge on gold and diamond mining company taxation.

Dönges said 255,900,000 rand ($383,300,000) had been allocated for defence — 26,500,000 rand ($41,100,000) above the main estimates for last year.

The minister also announced certain tax concessions, including a higher tax-free capital allowance on the establishment of new gold mines and higher tax rebates on insurance premiums and contributions to pension funds.

Dönges reported an upsurge in confidence by international capital in South Africa.

He said that after six successive years of capital outflow there has been a net capital inflow of 27,000,000 rand ($407,700,000) in the last year.

This has helped the country's external reserves to reach a record high of 612,000,000 rand ($924,412,000) at the end of last month, he said.

Strike Cause Rehired But Wildcatters Out

CASTLEGAR (CP) — Thomas Easton, whose coffee break led to the dismissal of 29 Teamsters Union (Ind.) truckers at the nearby High Arrow Dam site last month, was rehired Tuesday.

Oakumia Hydro Constructors Ltd., parent company of Foundation-Dravo Ltd., builders of the new Columbia River dam, announced Easton's reinstatement.

However, the 29 men who staged two wildcat strikes in three days in July to protest Easton's firing for taking an early coffee break have not been rehired. The union brought in 29 new drivers to replace them.

"I believe Easton's reinstatement is a vindication of the grievance procedure," said E. R. Peck, Columbia Hydro general manager. "By following it, the union achieved something the wildest action failed to achieve."

The rehiring resulted from proceedings by Reg Clements, appointed last month as arbitrator for labor disputes on the Peace and Columbia projects.

Stelco Settlement Covers 15,000

TORONTO (CP) — Agreement on a contract between the Steel Company of Canada Ltd. and 15,000 of its employees was announced late Wednesday.

Judge Walter Little, chairman of a conciliation board, announced the settlement at a press conference.

The settlement was reached four hours before negotiators for Local 1005, United Steelworkers of America, were scheduled to present its terms to a mass membership meeting in Hamilton.

The union has 11,000 members at Stelco's Hamilton plant and 4,000 others in fabricating plants at Toronto, Chatham, Ont., Brantford, Hamilton and Edmonton.

Judge Little said details of the settlement would not be made public until after they were presented to membership.

The steelworkers at the main Hamilton plant staged a five-day wildcat walkout two weeks ago to protest the slow pace of negotiations for a new contract to replace one that expired July 31.

Conflicting statements continue about the acceptance of the new Government of Canada bonds this week.

While dealers claim about $100,000,000 of the $500,000,000 bonds have not yet been sold, Finance Minister Sharp says the bonds have been oversubscribed.

In fact, both may be also slightly correct. The government on its own statement has disposed of its bonds at the wholesale level, but the dealers are still far short of having completed the retail distribution.

Most investment firms admit to being long on the new bonds, and even the long-term issue of 1982—which looks attractive with its yield of 5.94 per cent—is available at about 1/2 below the issue price.

Dealers say it was asking too much of the Canadian market to absorb as much as $500,000,000 of new bonds in the middle of the summer doldrums and at the moment when interest rates are as high as they have been for many years.

The difficulties of placement of the Canada bonds have caused speculation as to what Premier Bennett will pull out of his hat next week when he announced the terms of the $500,000,000 PGE parity bond issue.

BREAKFAST MEETING

The announcement will be made in Vancouver next Monday at a breakfast meeting to be attended by the financial industry and the communications services.

Will Mr. Bennett's money on demand sell at 5 1/2 per cent (the expected level) when the Canadian government is experiencing trouble getting rid of one-year bonds yielding 5.60 per cent?

HORSES PREFERRED

The man who founded and built up Vancouver Island's largest drycleaning business has sold out and gone into ranching and horse breeding.

Ron Page, "Page the Cleaner," retired recently from the 21-year-old firm and sold the operation to Nelson Laundry.

"I now have a 70-acre ranch in Central British Columbia and I am in the process of setting up a stud there," he said.

EXERCISING STAFF

Nelson's will continue to operate the cleaning business under its old name and with an existing staff of about 80 persons.

It is a second acquisition by Nelson's in the Victoria area, within recent years. His previous purchase was of the New Method Laundry from its former owner, Ald. Hugh Stephens.

CAPSULE COMMENT

"It is too late to become bearish on good quality stocks and too early to make new purchases except on a limited and selective basis"—the Alexander Hamilton Institute of New York, commenting on the New York Stock Market action.

DRILLING STOPPED

The people of Britain may be exulting over the discovery of natural gas both offshore and onshore, but not all of them are greeting the oil and gas exploration with open arms.

The village council of Cudham, Kent, has had a tiff with Esso Petroleum—the British arm of Standard Oil of New Jersey—over the drilling of a well in its area.

Cudham council does not want the whirr of industry to spoil the amenities and it has ordered Esso must not drill at the weekend and confine its mid-week drilling to 12 hours a day.

Esso wants to drill round the clock as is normal in the oil industry and it has abandoned its plans because of Cudham's unworkable conditions.

PAN-AM MAKES HAUL

The strike against five U.S. airlines increased the non-union Pan-Am Airways' July traffic to 1,647,000 passenger miles, an increase of 6.2 per cent from the previous July.

Pan-Am eventually, under a mutual aid pact, will have to portion out part of the excess revenue to its strike-aided partners.

The amount of the windfall payment will be determined by negotiation.

The surface of the stadium field is grass-covered, 535 feet long and 212 feet wide. It is surrounded by a six-lane rubberized asphalt running track a quarter-mile long. Expo spokesmen describe it as one of the finest track and field stadiums in the world.

NANAIMO—The centennial boys decided to hang these two Indians.

After all, that's what happened 100 years or so ago, when the Ss. Beaver visited Nanaimo.

The planners thought, what better way to celebrate the centennial than by hanging (symbolically) two Indians?

They got the actors, planned the ceremony, brought in the replica of the Beaver.

In the original event, the two Indians were chased and caught at an area which, in honor of the event, was called Chase River.

They took the Indians on board the Beaver, and the first jury trial in B.C. was held.

After giving the Indians a proper trial, they hanged them, and in honor of that event, they called the place of execution Gallows Point.

In the ceremony on board the new Beaver this week, actors played the scene.

And there were real Indians in the audience. When the grand centennial moment came, and the two Indians were sentenced to hang, a hush fell over the crowd.

And you know what? The Indians blew it. They bood.

Mixed reactions greeted this trial scene

North Island On the Move Bennett Says

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett officially opens his Sept. 12 provincial election campaign in Campbell River tonight, and says it is appropriate that the Social Credit bandwagon starts rolling from northern Vancouver Island.

"Vancouver Island is really starting to move, it's taken a few years," he said in a press conference Wednesday. "This is a paradise in itself, this Vancouver Island, and we intend to keep it that way."

The premier recalled that crown colonies of Vancouver Island and the B.C. Mainland became united 100 years ago, and said the new ferry, Queen of Prince Rupert, has now united the northern part of the Island with the northern part of B.C.

"Our policies have been good for the northern part of Vancouver Island, great growth is taking place there, a pulp mill is going in and we have a new ferry — there is no better place to open the campaign than Vancouver Island," he said.

The premier will open his campaign at 8 p.m. in the community hall at Campbell River, where Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell will be carrying the Social Credit banner in the coming election.

Election Schedule Set

Next week, he will attend a breakfast at the Hotel Vancouver on Monday, for the launching of a $50,000,000 party bond issue for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

On Tuesday, he will attend a luncheon and cut a ribbon in conjunction with the opening of a sports hall of fame at the Pacific National Exhibition grounds.

He will then head north on the PGE for speaking engagements at Fort St. John on Thursday and Dawson Creek on Friday. On Saturday, he will officiate at the opening of the Prince George Pulp and Paper mill. Premier Bennett made it pretty clear that Dr. Lawrence Ranta, medical director of the Vancouver General Hospital, is being considered as a successor to Health Minister Martin, who is retiring because of ill health.

Ottawa Pays At Last

Compensation cheques for damage caused by golden nematodes were received Wednesday by lower Island nurserymen from Ottawa.

Members of the Vancouver Island Nurserymen's Association, after almost a year of waiting, received cheques ranging as high as $40,000 to pay for a stock destroyed to prevent spread of the nematode. Between 15 and 20 growers were affected.

The University of Victoria is headed for a full enrolment of about 3,400 registrar Ronald Jeffels predicted Wednesday.

The figure is close to earlier projections of university growth, but slightly below the predicted 3,500 in the 1966-67 terms.

B.C. Telephone has reminded election candidates' campaign managers that it is against provincial regulations to put signs on telephone poles. The company wants signs kept off the poles to comply with Workmen's Compensation Board safety regulations.

Oak Bay council has given three readings to the Greater Victoria Library Board agreement adoption bylaw. Council also agreed on an intermunicipal cost-sharing plan for a proposed family and children's court building.

Squadron Chief

Capt. John B. Young, deputy chief of staff for Maritime Command Pacific has been appointed commander of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron, replacing Capt. W. P. Hayes, who will attend the National Defence College in Kingston, Ont., in September.

Nuisance Calls Problem

Obscene and nuisance telephone calls are becoming a problem across the country and B.C. Telephone Company is stepping up its program to combat them. In Victoria Wednesday, a company spokesman had some words of advice.

In most instances, he said, the recipient can halt the call simply by hanging up.

CALL TRACED

When the calls are repetitive, the recipient should report to the operator, giving full details.

A supervisor then traces the call by means of a mechanical switching gear. The equipment does not involve the monitoring of any telephone calls.

In Vancouver recently, the company tracked down three separate incidents involving nuisance calls.

DIE RAPIDLY

NDP Maverick Out, Urges Grit Support

C. A. MacDonald of Esquimalt, independent NDP member for the Esquimalt seat in the forthcoming provincial election, has decided not to run. He has asked his supporters to back Liberal candidate David Elrix.

Meanwhile, Mr. Elrix has charged Premier Bennett's bond issues are a hoax.

At a meeting at Colwood Wednesday night, Mr. Elrix said a new bond issue, probably with higher interest rates, would be brought out by the premier Monday.

Actually, he claimed, the taxpayer foots the bill and pays the interest.

Delegates selected for a federal Liberal conference to be held in the fall are Miss Grace Moses, Clare Rivers, Joseph Seville, Larry Dale and George Preston.

Defector Flew Prize

From Reuters-AP
TEL AVIV (CP) — An unnamed Iraqi pilot who defected to Israel Tuesday with a Russian-built MIG-21 jet said that as a Christian he suffered discrimination in Iraq and was passed up for promotion.

The MIG-21 the pilot brought over was the first of the type to be found intact in the Western world.

The pilot said he gave advance notification to the Israelis of his intention to defect.

Brig. Mordechai Hud, Israeli air force commander, told correspondents: "It is a comfortable feeling to have your enemy's top plane in your possession."

He was referring not to the Soviet Union, but to Iraq and also Egypt and Syria which have been supplied the same plane by the Kremlin.

"We have many plans for this plane," he said, without saying what they were.

Little League Finale Already Exciting Success

Liske Leads Stamps

Saskatchewan Upset

CALGARY — Saskatchewan Roughriders were impressively unbeaten after three Western Football Conference games and the winless Calgary Stampede, without a touchdown in three games, had a fullback Lowell Coleman, halfback Ted Woods and defensive end Jim things to come by twice moving the Stampede close in the second quarter. Robinson got one point with his first field goal try and three with the second after Abendschan's missed three-pointer.

LONG MARCH

An interception started Stamps on their way to their first touchdown of the season early in the third quarter. Starting on their own 10, they went all the way. Two passes to Terry Evanshen for long gains, the last producing a major score, ate up most of the yardage.

Just 68 seconds later, Jerry Keeling intercepted a Ron Lancaster pass and raced 20 yards for a touchdown which brought the score to 18-1.

Both offences stalled there until late in the fourth quarter when Jerry Campbell blocked a punt attempt by Jim McKean and Stamps got the ball only eight yards out. Liske hit Evanshen in the end zone for the last touchdown.

Liske, obtained from the Toronto Argos in a pre-season trade, hit on 11 of 22 passes for 175 yards in his first starting assignment. Defensive back Lu Bain, substituting for the injured Coleman, led the Calgary ground forces with 52 yards in nine carries. Bill Goods got 20 yards in three chances and newcomer Willie Ross 23 yards in seven carries.

BAD NIGHT

It was a bad night for the Saskatchewan offense, which managed only 10 first downs. Ron Lancaster completed eight of 17 passes for 114 yards but had four intercepted and the carriers only got 85 yards with George Reed good for 35 in eight tries and Ed Buchanan making 44 in 10 tries.

The Riders also lost the ball once on fumbles, were outplayed by four yards a kick and got a bit the worst of it in penalty yardage.

Furlong on the injured list and quarterback Eagle Day on the bench.

It looked like a mismatch, even to the 22,119 Calgary fans, but a new quarterback obtained in a much-criticized trade and a flaming defence created the season's biggest upset here Wednesday night.

Led by the passing and play-calling of Pete Liske and an alert defensive team, the Stampede blew over the Riders, 26-1. They scored three converted touchdowns and got a field goal and two singles from Larry Robinson.

A wide field-goal attempt by Jack Abendschan in the second quarter produced the only point for the Riders, who had scored 84 points in their first three games.

Ottawa's Riders Thump Alouettes

MONTREAL (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders scored a converted touchdown in both the second and third quarters after picking up a first-quarter single and defeated Montreal Alouettes 15-3 in an Eastern Football Conference game here Wednesday night.

The victory moved the Rough Riders into sole possession of first place in the Eastern Conference with six points. They are undefeated in three starts this season.

The loss was Montreal's second in three games this year and left them in third place with two points.

A shirt-sleeved crowd of 27,564 watched the game.

End Ted Watkins and fullback Jim Dillard scored the Ottawa touchdowns. Tackle Moe Racine converted both touchdowns and added a single on a wide field goal attempt in the first quarter.

Flanker Peter Kempf picked up Montreal's three points with a field goal in the third quarter. The Rough Riders scored 17 first downs to 13 for Montreal. Ottawa got nine first downs on passes and eight rushing, while Montreal picked up six first downs through the air, six rushing and one on a penalty.

Ottawa picked up 374 yards in total offense against 256 for Montreal. Jackson attempted 18 passes and completed nine while Faloney and Bork combined to complete 10 of 20 passes.

The Rough Riders intercepted three Montreal passes — two from Bork and one from Faloney.

Watkins caught four of Jackson's passes for 103 yards and one touchdown.

Dillard was Ottawa's leading ground-gainer with a net gain of 67 yards on 11 carries. Scott picked up a net gain of 85 yards on all tries.

STARS AGAIN

Bob Paremore, Montreal's swift halfback who joined the club last week from Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League picked up a net gain of 71 yards in 14 carries.

End Don Davis was Montreal's top receiver with 39 yards on three receptions.

All-Star Squads In Soccer Final

Six provinces, including B.C., have entered teams in the Canadian amateur soccer championship to be held in Winnipeg Aug. 28-Sept. 3.

Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Quebec, Ontario and B.C. will send all-star teams to compete for the Canadian title and allow selectors to pick 30 players for Canada's national soccer team at the 1967 Pan-American Games in Winnipeg.

The national team will also be entered in the 1968 Olympics and the 1970 World Cup.

B.C.'s team will be an under-23 affair coached by Len Burkinshaw of Vancouver. Burkinshaw conducted a tryout in Victoria at the beginning of July, but the only Victorian likely to make the B.C. side is United's Ike MacKay, 18.

TWO SECTIONS

B.C. will play a round-robin series with Ontario and Manitoba, and the leading team will meet the top club from the Alberta-Saskatchewan-Quebec section in the final Sept. 3.

The 30 players chosen for the Canadian team will be brought together for training in Toronto next spring.

Just try and keep Willie Mays out of the headlines.

Tuesday night he hit his 534th career homer to tie the late Jommy Foxx for second place in the all-time race and Wednesday night he blasted out No. 535.

STANDING OVATION

More than 16,000 San Francisco baseball fans gave the center-fielder a standing ovation as he circled the bases in the fourth inning after sending the ball over the right-field fence on a line right into a mob of children.

The homer was the 20th of the season for Willie. It came off St. Louis Cardinal pitcher Ray Washburn, who had a 3-0 shutout going at the time.

Only Babe Ruth, with 714 career homers, has hit more than the 35-year-old Mays.

Jay Alou made it a really big night in the ninth inning, connecting with a pinch-hit single that drove in the winning run in the 4-3 victory over Cardinals.

Giants leaped to within half a game of the National League leading Pittsburgh Pirates with the victory.

A club specializing in late-inning dramatics, the Pirates had the tables reversed last night when they blew a 7-1 lead and were beaten, 8-7, by New York Mets.

The Mets got within a run when pinch-hitter Bob Taylor climaxed a five-run fourth inning with a grand-slam home run, then won it in the sixth when Ron Hunt produced a two-run single. Bob Friend held his ex-teammates in check in the last three innings.

Los Angeles' three-place Dodgers had Sandy Koufax going for them but they couldn't take advantage of the Pittsburgh loss. Cincinnati's still-hopeful Reds got some fine pitching from Sammy Ellis and came out with a 5-1 win as Koufax lost his seventh trying for his 20th win.

The fourth-place Philadelphia Phillies also marked time, going down, 5-3, to Chicago Cubs in 10 innings.

In the American League, Baltimore Orioles continued their pennant march with a five-run ninth inning which beat Boston Red Sox, 8-4.

Other title defenders are Chris Robbins, under 16; Janice Melville, under 16, and Kane Straight, under 12.

The under-16 singles will lead off the three-day tournament.

Visiting Officials Laud Hampton Park Facilities

By JIM TANG

If you're young, or can be excited by the young, then Hampton Park is the place to be tonight, tomorrow night and Saturday afternoon.

That's where the four games of the Canadian Little League final will be played and excitement is the pervading feeling of the moment.

The 56 pre-teens are just plain excited, coaches, managers and other team officials are worried and excited and parents — and there will be quite a number of those all though the teams involved are from Sherbrooke, Windsor, Edmonton and Kelowna — are proud and excited.

Not a shot has been fired other than perhaps the old psychological trigger-pulling by coaches and managers, but the tournament is already assured of being an outstanding success.

The weather should be perfect and the playing conditions have drawn the kind of rave notices that should make the Municipality of Saanich feel proud.

"I have never seen anything like this," said Will Bosse, manager of the Prairie champions from Edmonton, after he had taken a look at Hampton Park. "It's wonderful."

It was a sentiment shared by all team officials, and is augured well for efforts to make the Saanich park the site of the Canadian final on a regular basis perhaps every second or third year.

Meanwhile, the players have been having the time of their lives with the butterflies not showing until bed-time last night.

The same could be hardly said for the team adults. All were willing to volunteer that they had good clubs but if often sounded like whistling past a graveyard. All are quite aware that few things are more unpredictable than Little League baseball, particularly when it's a straight knockout affair with no second chance.

Windsor, Kelowna Get Respectful Looks

Although what has happened in previous years should have no bearing on the current affair, the Ontario champions from Windsor seem to have earned the most respect and many a question is being asked about the B.C. champions from Kelowna.

The reason is that the two clubs came up with upset victories in the playdowns, Windsor eliminating Stoney Creek, last year's Canadian champions, and Kelowna knocking out Trail, the defending B.C. champion, on the way to the Canadian final.

Kelowna and the Edmonton Hardisty teams get things started tonight at 6 in the first semi-final and making this one game of a guessing game, though ever is the fact that both clubs lived a somewhat charmed life on the way to the final.

Kelowna started off with a 14-5 win over Beaver Valley, then 5-1 over Trail, 7-5 and Prince George, 8-7, to get to the B.C. final.

It wasn't much easier there, Kelowna got through the first round by edging Victoria Hampton, 5-4, breezed by Dunbar, 7-2, and then got a two-hit shutout from John Walker in besting Hastings East, Vancouver, 20-0 in the provincial final.

Walker, however, won't be the starting pitcher tonight because of the Little League rule which prohibits a pitcher from starting successive games.

However, it's all equal in this respect as the Edmonton team won't be able to start John Shaw, a right-hander who allowed but nine hits and one run in winning three of the six games in the Prairie playdowns.

Shaw didn't start the first game, and Edmonton hopes almost ended right there, it took 10 innings to defeat the University Optimists, 7-6.

Then came a 3-1 win over Sherwood Park, an 11-4 romp over Ottewell Kiwanis, an 8-0 shutout over Jasper Place, a 6-5 squeaker over Lethbridge after an extra inning and a 2-0 shutout of Calgary in the Prairie final.

Shaw pitched the wins over Sherwood Park, Jasper Place and Calgary.

The Edmonton club, incidentally is coached by Frankie Morris, who will be remembered by football fans as an outstanding player with Edmonton Eskimos.

Morris will have just about as much fan support as the Kelowna club, which is coached by Jack Hatch and managed by Gordon Smith. Ten of the 14 games in the Prairie playdowns will have their parents here and it wasn't unanimous only because of job problems.

Eastern Clubs End Frustrating Stretch

Tomorrow night, also at 6, the two Eastern champions will be trying to extend their best seasons ever after two most gratifying victories on the way to earning the trip to Victoria.

Sherbrooke Lennoxville, the Quebec Maritimes champions, had their first big moment after starting out with a 26-0 win over Cowansville when they eliminated Valleyfield, 6-2.

That victory erased the sting of 10 consecutive years of playoff defeats by Valleyfield.

After that one, the Sherbrooke club got by Gloucester, 6-1, Maritime champions, 2-1, before besting East Kiwanis of Montreal, 6-2, to earn the trip of a lifetime for the 13 French Canadian youngsters and the lone English pre-teen.

Andre Drouin, who will pitch against Ontario, threw a no-hitter in the 26-0 rout and Denis Dussault's two 6-2 victories were both two-hitters.

Good pitching featured the march of the Windsor-Central team, which had never before won more than one game on the Ontario playoffs.

In the six games it took coach Gary Trudell's club to get to Victoria, pitchers Peter Barone, a south paw, and Ricky Chase allowed but seven runs — four of them in the 9-4 win over Kirkland Lake in the final.

Chase, who started out with a 2-0 win over Dundas Central, earned himself a niche in Windsor's Little League hall of fame by pitching a no-hitter and striking out 16 in the 4-0 victory which eliminated Stoney Creek.

Sandwiched in between Chase's two shutouts was a 4-0 win over Paris pitched by Barone. Then it was Barone, 6-2, over Windsor and Chase in a 9-1 win over Brockville before the second big one, over Kirkland Lake in the Ontario final.

Take your choice.

Medicine Load Sent to India

MONTREAL (CP) — Some 1,500 pounds of medicine valued at $10,000 has been loaded aboard a ship destined for India as a result of the combined efforts of the Montreal Rotary Club, the Salvation Army and seven pharmaceutical companies. The cargo will be distributed to crisis-stricken areas of India by the Salvation Army.

Allan Milner rang the fire alarm at Fort and Douglas Tuesday night because he wanted to see how long it would take the fire trucks to get to the scene, central magistrate's court was told Wednesday.

Molner, of Whiskey Point, pleaded guilty to ringing a false alarm and was remanded to today for sentence and psychiatric assessment.

MANY ANSWERED
Constable Kenneth Horsman said Milner rang the box alarm at about 8:45 p.m. Four units and 14 firemen answered the call.

Constable Horsman said Milner came to the city police station about 30 minutes later and demanded to be arrested. "I believe the accused was confused mentally," Constable Horsman said.

ANOTHER VERSION
Milner told police he rang the alarm to see how fast the fire department would respond, but he told Magistrate William Ostler another version.

He said he did it "to get them to build another fire hall ... a modern, up-to-date fire hall with the latest electronics."

While a police car was stopped for a red light at Pandora and Cook July 5, Robert White drove along the inside lane and ran the light.

White, 1071 Davie, pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was fined $350. His licence was suspended for six months except for business purposes.

William Goode, 1388 Hillside, was remanded for a further week for sentence on a charge of theft over $50. Goode pleaded guilty last week to stealing about $15,000

Plunge Victim 'Fair'

Eighteen-year-old Ronald Leskun, driver of a car which plunged 100 feet over a bank at Mount Douglas Tuesday night, is in fair condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

He suffered a broken pelvis and internal injuries in the mishap, in which his four companions escaped serious injury.

ON TRAINING
A native of Windsor, Ont., he is on training at CFB Esquimalt from Atlantic Command in Halifax.

The party of five was returning from the top of Mount Douglas when their small English car went off the dry road, hurtling them down the heavily wooded side of the mountain.

Saanich firemen assisted by policemen struggled up the rocky face with Mr. Leskun on a stretcher. The four passengers made their own way.

Banff Ballet Mostly Uninspired

By WILLIAM THOMAS

If audience reaction were the only yardstick of competence, then Wednesday night's performance by the Banff School of Fine Arts Festival Ballet at the McPherson Playhouse could be termed a success.

On the other hand audiences probably applauded when the lions munched on the Christians during the Roman circus.

The performance, save for a contemporary dance offering by Eva von Gency and Richard Jones, was dull and quite uninspired.

Choreographer James Clouser provided some pretty movements but most were pointless. In the opening number Virginia Wakely did her best while her partners had to be content with insipid posturing.

This seemed to be what the capacity house expected, for they applauded wildly.

The performance, save for a contemporary dance offering by Eva von Gency and Richard Jones, was dull and quite uninspired.

It is hard to believe a show which is nearing the end of its run could not have more polish. The orchestra, led by Claude Kenyon, seemed at times to have lost interest in the music.

The brightest moment of the entire evening was the Monday's Child sketch. It was choreographed and danced by Jones and von Gency.

Mr. Jones has an effortless, virile style that blended perfectly with the finesse and charm of Miss von Gency.

The pity of it was that we only saw them in one number. In the production department, Miss Foster provided the costumes and style where it was needed.

The women's committee of the Victoria Symphony Society, which sponsored the show, had a difficult time of it.

Offer to Carpenters

VANCOUVER (CP)—Striking and locked-out carpenters throughout B.C. Wednesday were offered the same contract approved the previous day by five breakaway locals in the Okanagan.

The offer was made by the construction industry negotiating committee to the Provincial Council of Carpenters, which earlier repudiated the agreement.

Moreau de Concert, to music by Saint-Saens with Miss Wakely and partner Eric Hampton, had a measure of assurance notably lacking in almost all the other offerings.

ENDS TODAY "A MAN COULD GET KILLED"

Maniac Warns Police

STOCKPORT, England (AP) — A dagger was found Wednesday on the steps of the Stockport police station with a note containing a confession to two unsolved murders and a threat to strike again.

The note said: "My next victim will be a teenager. He has been the killer of Marjorie Hill and John Crossland."

Police said tests confirmed the dagger was the one used to murder John Crossland, 44-year-old theatre doorman stabbed in a lonely lane in nearby Cheadle Sunday night.

Mrs. Marjorie Hill was stabbed to death in Bramhall Park, a few miles from Cheadle, a year ago. Her killer was never found.

Detective Chief Supt. Percy Wilkes said: "I think that this will convince everyone... that there is a dangerous criminal or maniac about and one cannot treat the message as a joke."

Storm Toll Mounts

From AP

Raging storms in far-apart corners of the world have claimed more than 70 lives, Italians enjoying the traditional Ferragosto mid-August holiday were hard hit, more than 40 dying on highways and in north Italy's picturesque lakes.

Search teams are still looking for bodies in Japan, where 30 died and 18 are missing in torrential rains and landslides.

Infant Measles Controlled?

MONTREAL (CP) — The Institute of Microbiology and Hygiene of the University of Montreal Tuesday announced the development of a vaccine which it said could prevent 85 per cent of all cases of measles in new-born babies in Quebec province.

Dr. Armand Frappier, director of the Institute, said a number of provincial health departments across Canada have expressed interest in the vaccine. It combines "killed" measles vaccine with the DPT vaccine now administered to infants to combat diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

Anti-measles vaccines currently in use tend to produce unfavorable reactions, are too expensive or fail to provide long-lasting protection, Dr. Frappier said. Dr. Frappier said the vaccine will not be made available for at least another year because it must be tested extensively before it can be marketed.

Trapped Toddler Rescued

Knee-deep in trouble, three-year-old Michael Little of 1535 Westall, receives assistance from mother, Mrs. Francis Little, sister Katherine, 7, and brother Ronny, 6. Further assistance came from firemen, who were called Wednesday to chip away enough tile to free him from the drain pipe that trapped him. — (William A. Boucher)

Police Union Fights Fire Duty in Court

The legality of policemen doubling as firefighters will be questioned by Esquimalt Police Union on Sept. 29 in B.C. Supreme Court.

An application filed by union counsel Mrs. Marney Stevenson seeks a ruling that the practice is illegal.

Notice was issued Tuesday.

Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant declined comment on the action.

"It would be most improper for anyone to comment in any way, shape or form, now that it is before the courts," he said.

In the notice the union says employment of union members as firefighters by the police commission "is unlawful and/or beyond the powers" of the commission; the duty of policemen to the commission pursuant to the collective agreement "is to discharge the duties and responsibilities imposed by law upon police officers and no other duties or responsibilities;" it is beyond the powers of Esquimalt Township "directly or indirectly to employ, order or require members of the applicant union to carry out the duties of firefighters."

NOT LEGAL

The union argues that double duty by the department is legally tenable, as the police commission is responsible for hiring only the municipal council deals with firefighters.

Earlier, before the dispute went before the courts, Reeve Bryant indicated any legal action by the union would meet with opposition from Esquimalt.

NOT NEEDED

Council had already voted that a separate fire department would be an unnecessary tax burden.

When the issue rose two years ago, a conciliation board said it had no jurisdiction, but this year a board split when the chairman, B. W. Dyas, ruled that the point was a legal matter.

Vandals Ruin Headstones

Vandals last weekend pushed over 37 headstones at Ross Bay cemetery, damaging 18 beyond repair.

The damage was done sometime between 5 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Monday, police said.

Seventy-five Liberals attended the nominating convention in the War Amputees Hall.

Mr. Portous, 40, an accountant at St. Joseph's Hospital, has played an active role in municipal and school affairs. He is chairman of the board of trustees of School District No. 61. He is married and has five children.

Mr. Preston, 34, is the youngest candidate in the Victoria riding. In 1962 he was centennial coordinator for the City of Victoria centennial celebration. He is an engineering assistant with the city. Mr. Preston is married and has four children.

Both men stressed the Victoria riding needs somebody in the legislature to represent the constituents. The riding has been lacking efficient representation for years, they said.

Faulty Alarm Brings Big Convoy

Four Victoria fire department vehicles and several police officers answered a false fire alarm late Wednesday at the Hudson's Bay Company store on Douglas Street.

A city fire official said the alarm was caused by a fault in the store's alarm system.

Steady bass-roar and a static-like hiss.

An old croak of, say 32, might not dig the sound, but in its own groovy way the happening Wednesday night at the arena was one of the nicer things on today's teen scene.

A total of 4,044 youngsters paid to see and hear the five Beach Boys, Britishers Chad and Jeremy and the Sunrays quintet.

From elementary school children up to aging swingers of 25 or so, they filed in, enjoyed themselves and left apparently content.

A senior police officer, though impressed by the evening's music, was wowed by the kids.

"They were excellent — highly commendable," he declared later in an unsolicited testimonial to youth.

On duty were 21 policemen trained in handling mobs, plus dogs out sight in reserve, but the thin blue line in front of the bandstand could have ticketed cars instead.

The Sunrays, first on, failed to warm the audience.

Chad and Jeremy, two pleasant young men who have done better in North America than at home, put on an easy-going 25-minute show before a crowd predisposed to enjoy them.

The sound, ghostly because of the faulty loudspeaker system, shredded the air during noisy numbers by the Beach Boys.

Despite the noise and the beat, only one member of the audience broke for the bandstand. A young girl, she was repulsed easily by a policeman.

"A very quiet crowd," singer Jeremy mused backstage during intermission.

of the theatre, who could only explain the matter was the fault of the women's committee of the Victoria Symphony Society, which sponsored the show.

The committee printed pink and blue tickets at $2 and $1.50 but said seating was on a first-come-first-served basis.

By 8 p.m., half an hour before curtain time, the house was almost full.

What really angered ticket holders was that two full rows of choice seats were roped off for dignitaries. The seats were only half full at curtain time.

Happily for Mr. Morgan his boss, Mayor A. W. Toome, was one of the occupants of the roped-off seats and he readily appreciated the manager's predicament.

Mr. Morgan explained, "This theatre has been over-sold and now we are getting it in the neck. We have had to refund money to a number of people who have been turned away."

Douglas Mackinnon, 4833 Townsend, said, "I bought two tickets the day the box office opened and arrived 20 minutes early only to find all seats taken. The box office was still selling tickets at 8:30 p.m. when I left."

Mr. Morgan concluded, "This confusion is just bad public relations for the city of Victoria and it is just not our fault."

No one from the women's committee would care to comment.

City's Own Ambulance To Run in September

according to one of the men who will be running it, Deputy Fire Chief Eric Simmons.

The achievement will end a decade or more of haggling and controversy, often acrimonious, on whether or not the city should provide a facility for picking up victims of accidents and other emergencies and rushing them to the hospital.

The new service will be operated by four teams of two firemen each, and will respond to about 1,000 calls a year.

HERE SEPT. 1

Deputy Chief Simmons said Wednesday the new ambulance left Windsor three weeks ago for St. Catharines, Ont., where it will be modified and fitted out with equipment. He fully expected that it would arrive here by Sept. 1 and be in service soon after.

The new vehicle, for which only $10,000 was provided in the 1966 municipal budget, will cost about $6,000. Another $2,000 will be spent on emergency treatment equipment.

"Our crews are ready to go when the vehicle arrives," said Chief Simmons.

TRAINED MEN

"We are using industrial first aid men who are normally on duty in any case. We have not been allowed extra staff for operation of this service, you know."

"However, these men are highly trained and have obtained experience from operation of the inhalator equipment. Granted, accident cases will be something else again, but they are trained to cope," the fire department leader added.

The inhalator vehicle, which will continue in operation, made 184 calls in 1965.

PRACTICE SCORED

to clean it thoroughly between calls.

It was pointed out to aldermen at the time the ambulance issue was at its height, in April, that in an emergency an accident victim could be loaded into the patrol wagon immediately after one or a number of drunks had been carted to the lockup.

Observers of the municipal scene said Tuesday that they believed the institution of the "light" ambulance service would probably be the precursor of modern, streamlined, municipal ambulance facility with "heavy" equipment such as that in use in Saanich.

Fortune Seeks Oil Fortune

The navy's former minesweeper HMCS Fortune, which was based at Esquimalt during her service career, this week will begin a search for oil off the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The wood-hulled ship, built of B.C. fir with aluminum frames at Victoria Machinery Depot, was commissioned into the navy in the fall of 1954. The 890-ton minesweeper has now been re-constructed at Sterling Shipyard Ltd. in Vancouver and renamed the Ms. Offshore.

This week she sails for the waters off the west and east coasts of Graham Island, most northerly of the Queen Charlotte Islands, and off Dixon Entrance to find oil for Pan-American Petroleum Corp. of Calgary.

While at Esquimalt, the Fortune was a unit of the Second Canadian Minesweeping Squadron along with her sister ship, HMCS James Bay. Both were purchased early this year and left Esquimalt as the property of Offshore Marine Services Ltd. The Fortune is under charter to the petroleum company. The James Bay has not yet been converted.

Jubilee, the city's largest hospital, also has to contend with the heavy turnover of registered nurses.

Miss Thompson agrees that young people feel isolated on the island, and if they have families or friends on the mainland whom they visit often, travelling runs into money.

A newly-graduated registered nurse represents an investment of $5,000 to St. Joseph's School of Nursing, yet statistics compiled by the Canadian Nurses' Association show that 50 to 75 per cent of them stay for only six months with hospitals from which they graduated.

Isn't that a fast exit for that kind of money?

On one hand, it is. On the other hand, it has to be remembered that before she graduates the new nurse has been in training for three years, living frugally.

When she finishes training, she'll probably start at $372 a month, will work day, evening or overnight shifts, and will be lucky if she has a Saturday and Sunday weekend.

And life for the modern-day Florence Nightingale can come close to being a nightmare, as she stands between a patient's life or death, among all the pressures of the big institutions hospitals have become.

Next: More future nurses will be exchanging their university motorbikes for a white cap, and what this will mean to the patient and everyone else in medicine.

Why Do Nurses Leave?

Victoria 'Singly' Dull

By JOHN MATTERS (First of two parts)

A shortage of single men in Victoria and an otherwise dull social life are high among the reasons newly-graduated nurses here turn to nomads.

"If there were more single men around, we'd probably have a lot more of our young nurses settling down," Mrs. Ardena Simpson, acting director of nursing service at St. Joseph's Hospital, said Tuesday.

And over the telephone from Vancouver came these words from Miss Eleanor Graham, executive secretary of the Registered Nurses Association of B.C.:

"Some of the younger nurses over there can't find enough to do in their spare time. The Okanagan is favored over Victoria by single nurses because there's always something doing the year round."

Both Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals have kept records of the reasons nurses give for leaving.

Here are the conversation topics at those farewell parties:

● Going back to their families. There's a high turnover of married nurses who want to get back for a while with their children, who can't find a babysitter or are moving because their husbands are transferred.

● They want to see the world. There's a universal shortage of nurses, which means they can get jobs anywhere, and they decide they should travel before settling down.

● They want more experience. Peter Blewitt, assistant administrator of St. Joseph's, points out that the system of financing Greater Victoria's hospitals leaves much to be desired in the line of equipment. Many nurses would have no opportunity to get experience with that equipment unless they moved.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Please do not think this letter is phony. I need help before my married children find out what their grandmother is doing.

My widowed mother, who is in her 70s, has moved in with a man about the same age. Mother refused to live with any of her children and she won't live with another woman. She will lose her share of my father's pension and social security if she remarries. The man she has moved in with is on a modest pension and is not covered by social security. They both can live much better together than either of them could live alone.

Mother has always been adored by her grandchildren and I shudder to think what their reaction will be when they learn about her new way of life.

The two are planning a winter vacation in Florida and Mother says she is prepared to ignore the gossip. She told me yesterday, "We enjoy one another and have a good life together. There is nothing immoral about our arrangement. I am his unpaid housekeeper. We have separate bedrooms and so long as we are straight with the Lord we feel it is nobody's business."

Legion Breakfast Most Successful

GANGES — Over 300 people attended the scrumptious Legion breakfast, sponsored by the LA to the Royal Canadian Legion (Branch 92) held in the Legion Hall, Sunday.

Chefs John Sturdy, John Waterfall and Don Fraser were most professional in their tall white chef hats and aprons as they cooked delicious scrambled eggs and pancakes.

Mrs. L. Loiselle, convenor, assisted by Mrs. F. Kirkham, Mrs. H. Emerslund, Mrs. W. Jameski, Mrs. N. Skelton and other members of the LA who worked in relays doing a grand job of keeping the platters filled with ham, sausages, eggs and pancakes as well as rolls and hot coffee. The slogan "all you can eat" proved true as many people returned for second helpings.

Girl Guides and daughters of LA members assisted in serving the crowd who came between 8:30 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Mrs. F. Saunders was responsible for the floral decorations of yellow flowers in blue containers on the long breakfast table as well as mixed sweet peas in vases arranged around the hall.

Mrs. C. Asher was responsible for publicity and T. J. Sharland was at the door.

Many visitors staying at resorts and boating people attended as well as Islanders.

Approximately $200 net profit was made from this successful affair.

Parish-Butler

Lace Highlights Gown

A double ring ceremony at St. Paul's Anglican Church recently united in marriage Shirley Ann Butler and Mr. Ronald Dwight Parish.

Rev. J. A. Roberts officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Butler, Victoria and the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Parish, Sidney.

The bride chose a floor-length sheath gown of ligoda, styled with lace accents on the bodice and elbow-length sleeves. A detachable cathedral train flowed from a lace insert at the shoulders. A single rose held her tiered bouffant veil which fell softly to chapel length. White gladiolus and carnations and ivy were in her bouquet.

Attendants, Mrs. G. King and Mrs. S. Tremblay, were in full-length gowns of pale pink silk shantung fashioned with empire waists and elbow-length sleeves.

They wore toning headpieces and carried pink carnations with ivy.

Mr. Robert Bentham was best man and Mr. Lorne Jack was usher.

The attendants' bouquets flanked the wedding cake on the buffet table at the reception held in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel. Mr. Percy Owen proposed the bridal toast.

Leaving on a honeymoon to the Okanagan the new Mrs. Parish wore a turquoise three-piece suit with beige accessories and wide brimmed turquoise hat. On their return the newlyweds will make their home at 1262 Beach Drive.

Being Number One Swinger Like Baking Best Meringue

By JOYCE HABER
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — I've only given one party in my life, ever," says the brown-eyed blond in the orange polka dot shirt.

One party was enough. It took place at a Georgetown discotheque and had a "Batman" theme. All the swinging people were there. The Arab Ambassador was there. Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy came wrapped in silver foil.

In a space of weeks, two national magazines ran color spreads on Pretty, 31-year-old Barbara Howar, calling her the nation's No. 1 hostess and the capital's No. 1 swinger. Mrs. Howar disavows both titles.

"Following Perle Mesta and Gwen Gwinn is my idea of nothing," she says. "Best hostess? It's like making the best meringue pie in the world — great at the country fair, but who cares?"

Nor does Barbara, who is the youngest chairman ever of this year's chic international ball, consider herself the leader of the swing set. "This is a swinger's town," she objects. "Yes, I do the frug, — although it's hard to find a place to do it. Then there's some woman who wears a size 16 and is 50 and looks like a fool. So who are they going to remember who's shaking around?"

"I do it, but not at swearing, ins or church or tea parties. It's like you can't go anywhere without a vinyl dress." Mrs. Howar who admits wearing vinyl dresses and pants suits and palazzo pajamas and Kenneth Lane earrings, is busily commuting to New York as fashion consultant for a new shop, The West End, in order to pick up "the kind of things you can't buy in Washington." There will be more conservative clothes, too — those of what she calls "the three B's": Bill Blass, Geoffrey Beane, and Donald Brooks.

Earlier this year, Barbara Howar wasn't so delighted at being identified with fashion. She helped shop for Luci Johnson's trousseau and the papers started referring to her as the White House fashion adviser. "I never was," she insists. "The White House is so funny. They take you on campaigns, have you co-ordinate balls, and then if you get headlines, they're angry — unless you have an official capacity, a slot.

"It's okay if you're the wife of the assistant secretary." So I became fashion adviser, which was most embarrassing — not just with those friends who thought it sounded menial, but with those who asked why I wasn't doing a better job."

Such plain talk is refreshing in a town that scrutinizes its citizens as if they were so many shapely girls wearing nothing but fishnet dresses over flesh-colored body stockings. And Barbara Howar has been plain-talking a lot of late.

"I guess my usefulness is over, and I've been had," she said, after the White House made her cancel a $6,000 party she was planning in honor of Luci and Pat Nugent. "I'm very fond of Luci," she says, "But we're not really friends of the Johnsons. We're not the same speed."

Barbara has picked up speed since she came to Washington from her home town of Raleigh, North Carolina, to work as secretary to a congressional committee. Seven years ago, she married handsome, wealthy building contractor Edmund Howar, whose father constructed Washington's Island temple. They live, with their two children, in a tastefully furnished Georgetown house which once belonged to their friends, the Ted Kennedys. Two years ago, Barbara was asked to work for President Johnson at the Democratic national convention. She agreed, and before long was traveling on the Ladybird campaign train as Mrs. Johnson's hairdresser. Chosen to co-ordinate the five inaugural balls, Barbara also rounded up clothes for the Johnson girls to wear.

But young Mrs. Howar is a throwback to the previous administration. Her idea of a "fun" group "is the Kennedy crowd. Joan and Ted, Bill Moyers — and much of the news media: the David Brinkley, Joe Kraft, Art Buchwald."

She considers it "unfair" to compare the Kennedy and Johnson eras. "The Kennedys drew on all the bright young men from all over the country, whereas the Johnsons stuck to Texas. There's all this talk about Texans having superiority complexes. I find just the opposite.

"The Kennedy people went to Watch Hill and Palm Beach, and they could talk at dinner because they weren't worrying about how to use a finger bowl. When you're well-traveled and wealthy, you're not impressed by money, and you judge people by other standards.

"Do they have wit? Do they have taste? Not just do they give parties, but do they know how to give parties?"

She may have given only one party herself, but clearly, swinger Howar knows how.

When asked about the war in Viet Nam, Lennon said, "We do not agree with people getting killed" and that if a man "did not feel like fighting, he should have the right not to go into the army."

Lennon stated he felt his remarks on Christianity had not hurt their image "except for with a few and I don't really mind about them."

Asked about what they were doing to help Britain's sagging economy, Lennon suggested that they give back the medals they received for assisting the economy a few years ago.

The Beatles press conference followed a matinee performance by them at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens in which a near-capacity crowd of 15,000 screamed their approval of the quartet.

HAILED OFF
Only one girl managed to crash through the line of about 150 police and she was hailed off the stage before she could get to Ringo Starr.

Police who have protected the Beatles on two other occasions when the group played Toronto had little trouble with the fans, some of whom were seated only 30 feet from their idols.

MOB SCENE
The Beatles arrived in Toronto early Wednesday and were met at the airport by about 500 of their fans. Police evicted the group past another 500 waiting at their hotel by bringing them to a back door in a police parking wagon.

The Beatles never left the hotel until they were due to appear at the Gardens and police successfully blocked numerous anti-fanishers made on their eighth-floor rooms.

Birth Date Tiff

School Opening In Metchisin

By NANCY BROWN

Education Minister Peterson will officially open the new Dunsmuir junior high school on Painter Road in Metchisin, Sept. 27.

"That is," grinned Sookie school board chairman and Esquimalt NDP candidate John Bartram at a meeting on Tuesday, "if he is still education minister then."

UNDER FIRE
School board policy of a Dec. 31 birthdate for Grade 1 registrations came under fire from trustees Mrs. Isabel Reader and Ardiel Wickham.

"I have always felt the ruling that no one would be admitted was wrong," said Mrs. Reader after hearing a letter from the mother of a girl who will be six years old Jan. 1, 1967.

Chairman Bartram felt it was a matter of policy which should be followed.

"We have to have a cutoff date somewhere, and there will always be someone born the day after, no matter what we do," he said. "This question came up last year, and we decided that we should adhere to our policy."

A GUIDELINE
Just because we were wrong last year does not mean that we have to go on being wrong," rejoined Mrs. Reader.

"Our policy is only a guideline for us to follow, but by adhering slavishly, we are showing that we don't have the ability to use our judgment."

It was pointed out the application was for an admission into Port Renfrew School, where classes were not crowded and it was desirable to keep enrollment up.

TEST REQUIRED
The decision was to accept the enrolment, subject to the child being tested by a primary supervisor to see if she was ready for school.

Although the Sookie adult education courses have been ended because of poor registration, it was decided facilities would be provided in district high schools for a full enrolment where there was a full enrolment.

Meter Maids Hard to Find

OTTAWA (CP) — The capital's police force is running short of meter maids — women officers who put tickets on illegally parked cars. "We just haven't been able to recruit the type of women we want," Chief Reg Axcell told an interviewer. The meter maid staff is down to 24 from the normal complement of 35.

Porteous presents rare book to Daphne Temple

New Adult Study Institute

The Goal: 10,000 Books

Book-hunting Mrs. Daphne Temple is offering Victorians a chance to play founding father to the community's new Institute of Adult Studies.

All it takes to be one is the painless donation of a few books — practically any book — to the infant library of the institute.

Mrs. Temple, of 1243 Richmond, is collecting a hoped-for 10,000 volumes. She sees her job not as a heaping chore but as an opportunity to let Greater Victoria join in building the school on the old Lansdowne campus of the University of Victoria.

REASON WHY

"This is our school — something unique," she said Wednesday. "I want everyone to have the chance to be able to say later: 'I helped build it.'"

"That's why I volunteered for the job: the whole idea is so tremendous."

She's already got books on poetry, philosophy, history and art. Gray Campbell, head of Gray's Publishing Ltd. in Sidney, contributed an assortment of his books. John Porteous, chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, Wednesday gave an 1893 two-volume set of Gibbon's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire.

OLD TEXTBOOKS

"We can use technical books of all kinds; university graduate theses would be welcome. High school and university students could donate their old texts."

"There must be shelves and shelves of books in Greater Victoria doing nothing but gathering dust.

"A university gets help before it's off the ground. The institute hasn't."

"This is something the people of the city can build themselves."

Net Finalists Meet Today

Finalists of the Greater Victoria public junior tennis tournament meet at 1 p.m. today on the Beacon Hill courts.

The tourney, which has been going on all this week with 500 players in the 11- to 18-year brackets, winds up with eight matches. Trophies will be awarded at 4:30. Finalists:

Boys' 11-12 years — Susan Rogers vs. Heather Graham, Howard Lee vs. Brian Hartley. Boys' 13-14 years — Val Scott vs. Susan Martin, Jim Barthman vs. John Cravero. Boys' 15-16 years — Marlene Kuller vs. Pecky Hartley, Ed Davis vs. Alan Davis. Boys' 17-18 years — Pat Brain vs. Veronica Marsden. Girls' 11-12 years — Faith Graham vs. Sandra Moss, Derek Allan vs. Don Burdman.

Even Used Cars In Safety Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. House of Representatives unanimously approved Wednesday a bill to set federal safety standards on 1968 model cars and extend them to used cars several months later. The vote was 371 to 0.

While the House joined the Senate in mandating new car changes, it went beyond a Senate-passed bill in ordering the development of standards for the resale of used cars.

ANOTHER HURDLE
The measure went to a House-Senate conference committee, where differences between the two sides must be ironed out.

During debate, members said the bill would do little about the many causes of accidents, including carelessness, recklessness and alcohol — problems tackled in a companion bill with the House taken up today.

NEXT YEAR

But they hoped the measure would substantially reduce the resulting carnage, reflected in 50,000 deaths and many more injuries each year.

The House-passed measure would affect 1968 model cars, which will appear in 1967, and used cars in 1968.

Election September 8

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Smallwood Wednesday called a provincial election for Sept. 8 but will withhold until Monday a "manifesto" on which his Liberal government will face its sixth test at the polls since Confederation in 1949.

The premier's announcement at a news conference just allows the required 21 days clear notice after dissolution of the 3rd legislature. It ended weeks of speculation, prompted partly by the biggest cabinet shuffle since the government first took office in 1949.

FIFTH CALL

It is the fifth provincial election to be called this year, but Newfoundland will vote four days earlier than British Columbia, where election day is Sept. 12. Other provincial elections were held May 30 in Prince Edward Island, June 5 in Quebec and June 23 in Manitoba.

The Liberals won 34 of the 42 house seats in the last Newfoundland election Nov. 19, 1962. The Progressive Conservatives won seven and one independent was elected.

LIBERALS LEAD

Subsequent resignations of a Liberal and a Conservative, the death of one PC and the Independent's decision to join the Conservative party in April left the standing at dissolution as Liberals, 33, PCs six, and three vacancies.

Five new cabinet ministers have been appointed since July 19, the latest just two days before the election announcement. None of the five hold seats in the legislature.

Several veterans members of the government's 17-year reign have slipped into the back-

THERE ARE OFTEN TIMES when feminine irregularity calls for a special mild laxative — particularly one that will avoid upsets that may occur with some all-purpose laxatives. To meet this need, Pharmaco (Canada) Ltd. has developed CORRECTOL® — a laxative that is remarkably effective in a new gentle way. Instead of producing a heavy bulk, Correctol combines a simple waste-softening agent with a laxative ingredient so mild and predictable it may be used even after childbirth. Ask for Correctol at all drug counters. In pink tablets: 24 for $1.25. *Reg. T.M.

IF YOU ARE AFRAID OF EXTRA CALORIES — but still have a sweet tooth, the answer to your dilemma is so easy and so good — it's SWEETA, the no-calorie sweetener that gives you honest-to-goodness sweetness with no after-taste. Yes, it's good — and when I say it's easy, I'm thinking particularly of SWEETA in its liquid form. It sweetens hot or cold drinks instantly — and it's so handy for cooking or baking. Two drops of liquid SWEETA equal one teaspoon of sugar in sweetness! Ask for SWEETA, made by Squibb, in liquid, cube or granulated form. — it's the most delicious way I know to satisfy your taste for sweetness... with a calorie-clear conscience!

Fishing Rules Changed

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Fraser River will be closed to sockeye net fishing until further notice.

The International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission said Tuesday, however, that gillnetting with 8 1/4-inch mesh will be permitted in the Fraser for spring salmon for 12 hours today.

An extension of 48 hours in all American waters is recommended for this week in order to give an equal division of the catch between U.S. and Canadian fishermen.

Up to Tuesday morning, the Canadian sockeye catch totalled 1,020,000, of which 560,000 were taken in the Fraser and 460,000 in the Strait of Juan de Fuca. Only 893,000 sockeye have been taken in Washington state waters.

The commission will allow three days of Canadian operation in the area west of William Head because of a fresh run from the Adams River.

School Strike Favored

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Employees of School District 24 voted unanimously Tuesday in favor of strike action to back up contract demands.

Bill Ferguson, president of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) Local 900, said: "It is the union's intention to explore all avenues of settlement before the action would be taken."

Approximately 140 janitors, engineers, maintenance men and secretarial staff are involved in the dispute.

Yellowhead Off Limits

KAMLOOPS (CP) — A B.C. highway official says the Yellowhead route through the Rockies from Jasper to Kamloops will remain closed to tourists this summer and possibly next summer as well.

He said construction on the new 15-mile road is progressing well but most of the route is still under heavy construction with no gravel on the old road. Scheduled completion date for the highway is October, 1968.

Like Father On Mission

MONTREAL (CP) — Ed Mirvish, Toronto merchant, art patron and entrepreneur, Tuesday announced he will promote the Eric Nicol play, Like Father, Like Fun, in Montreal as part of an effort to revive English-language theatre in Canada's largest city.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

A case of "convention for theorists is the correct lead from three small cards. In partner's suit. This result on this deal was the kind of disaster that has persuaded many players to abandon the traditional "top-of-nothing" opening.

After South had climbed to a spody diamond game (three no trump by North would have been a better spot) West had no reason to lead anything other than the suit East had bid. Unfortunately, the lead of the nine-spade gave a chance to declare a take-out bid unmakeable contract.

Declarer put up dummy's club queen and won the trick when East covered. He crossed to a trump, finessed the club eight and pitched a spade from dummy on the club jack. Since South has only a single spade himself, this seemingly useless discard is momentarily startling — but of course it sets up East for an inescapable endplay. After ruffing his last club, declarer led to the spade king and East was — and had to return a heart or concede a fatal suit-and-suit.

Although the top-of-nothing lead tells partner that you have no high cards in the suit, a valuable message — it often costs tricks when the card is led an unsupported nine or eight. Many experts believe nines are too precious to toss around like confetti; they prefer to lead the middle card from three small. On the second round you can tell partner you have not got doubleton by playing the highest card — provided you can play the lowest card on the second round.
partner will usually know what is going on. This is called the MUD Convention — middle, up, down.

Police Killings

Second Suspect Wasn't Armed

GLASGOW (Reuters) — Police have arrested a second man sought in a nationwide manhunt following the shooting of three London detectives. The arrest was made in this Scottish city Wednesday within 50 yards of a major police station.

Police had warned that John Duddy, 37, was dangerous and believed armed. But when two carloads of detectives descended on a tenement building in the working-class district of Calton, they found him unarmed and unresisting.

Duddy and Harry Roberts, 30, were named and described in nationwide radio and television broadcasts Tuesday and Wednesday. Duddy was urged to turn himself in.

A third man, John Edward Whitney, 36, already has been charged with murdering the three policemen, "with others."

Believed in London

Police divers, meanwhile, carried out a second fruitless search for a murder weapon on the bed of the Thames River near the spot where the killers' getaway car was found in London 30 hours after the triple shooting.

Detectives also went back to the garage where the car was found to sift through a pile of rubbish to see whether a gun could be buried beneath it.

At Shepherd's Bush Police Station in West London, donations sent in for the dead men's widows and orphans topped the £5,000 ($15,000) mark. All three of the slain men were from this station.

Law and the Driver

Many motorists are not aware of the changes of the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act. For their benefit, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce traffic safety committee has prepared a list of traffic regulations with explanations where needed.

Not included are clauses which refer specifically to professional drivers.

SECTION 160 (3) Rights-of-way Between Vehicle and Pedestrian

Where a vehicle is slowing down or stopped at a crosswalk or at an intersection to permit a pedestrian to cross the highway, no driver of another vehicle approaching from the rear shall overtake and pass the vehicle which is slowing down or stopped.

Comment

This sub-section is designed for the protection of pedestrians. A vehicle that has slowed down or stopped at an intersection or crosswalk, has most probably done so to permit a pedestrian to cross the roadway.

The visibility of a driver of an overtaking vehicle in such circumstances is dangerously limited. In particular, small children crossing the roadway may be very difficult to see until they are directly in the path of the overtaking vehicle.

A common situation in downtown Victoria occurs when an elderly or slow moving pedestrian is crossing a street with traffic control lights. Although the pedestrian starts to cross the roadway with the green light, he moves so slowly he is unable to complete the crossing before the light changes.

Therefore, a driver approaching the crosswalk, although the light may be in his favour, should pay particular heed to another vehicle still stopped at the crosswalk. Often the vehicle overtaken is waiting for a slow moving pedestrian to complete his crossing.

Similar situations occur at crosswalks and intersections not governed by traffic control lights. The drivers of all vehicles must be aware that to complete his crossing, the pedestrian has the right-of-way over all other traffic.

Clause For Kitty

Who gets the kitty? William J. Fields, 77, or Flat Nose, 18, last surviving of five fellows bequeathed $24,000 six years ago by Mrs. Margaret Montgomery, Chicago? Will stipulates Fields is to get $15,000 if he outlives Flat Nose with remainder to go to Catholic charity. Former waiter cared for cats with income from estate.—(AP)

The Baby Needs A Name

Baby gibbon at right is a male; it was just discovered, and Roddy's Felpark on Derance Road is looking for a name. Baby ape, three months old and weighing 18 ounces, is starting to walk a bit now and even climbs wire fence, with considerable coaxing by mother Coco. Father Jimmy at left is very fond of family addition and has to stay by himself. Baby eats some solids, but will be nursing for about a year.—(Kinsman)

Almost Caught

Rare Animal Loose Here

As far as Mrs. J. G. Choje, 1028 Sulej, is concerned, the one that got away could have been the start of an exclusive fur piece.

Mrs. Choje and David Anderson of Deep Cove were driving in the neighborhood of Mrs. Choje's home Tuesday when she spotted a sleek black animal.

Mr. Anderson thought it was a weasel, but when it ran, Mrs. Choje knew it was a rare black mink.

Mrs. Choje dashed from the car, followed by Mr. Anderson, and gave chase, but the animal disappeared into the bushes of Beacon Hill Park.

Mrs. Choje has seen many mink in the past and is positive the creature she saw Tuesday was a black mink.

Until very recently, black mink fur was produced only by dyeing. However, a true black mutation mink has now been bred for the fur industry.

A provincial museum spokesman said unusual colorings are becoming more common in the wilds because mutated mink occasionally escape from captivity.

Sub 'Invisible' Papp Claims

PARIS (Reuters) — Joseph Papp, a Hungarian-born Canadian, said Wednesday that searchers would never find the 600-mile-an-hour "submarine" which he said brought him to France.

French government sources maintained he crossed the Atlantic by commercial plane, not submarine.

But Papp, 33-year-old Montrealer, said: "They are searching for it (the sub) but they will never find it. The radioactivity from its engines will stop their radar from working."

ATOMIC FUEL
Police quoted Papp as saying his submarine was powered by six jet engines using a solid atomic fuel.

Papp was picked up from a rubber dinghy off the Brittany coast Saturday, saying his sub hit a rock and finally went down for good.

Government sources said Papp arrived in France by plane 36 hours before he was picked up off Brest.

BLUE OVERALLS
The tall, lanky and unshaven Montrealer strode out of the Canadian Embassy Wednesday wearing blue overalls and heavy boots after arranging his passage back to Canada.

Government sources indicated they have no objection to Papp returning to Canada. The Canadian embassy made arrangements for him to return.

Papp told reporters his submarine hit a rock at the bottom of the Atlantic about 800 miles from Europe.

HIT ROCK
"I was sometimes 30 and sometimes 60 feet from the bottom," he said. "Then suddenly came a big rock. I could not avoid it."

He said he covered the remaining 800 miles on the surface.

"Water began to come in at the front and the front got very heavy," he said. "I had to get the front up. To get the front up I thought I should travel very fast. So I went to the surface and travelled as fast as I could."

He said his submarine encountered rough seas near the French coast, broke in two and sank. He said his submarine was capable of travelling 600 miles an hour on the surface but he could not estimate his speed when he struck the underwater rock.

Papp was discharged from Brest Naval Hospital Tuesday night after being questioned by police. He arrived in Paris Wednesday morning.

He said that when he returns to Montreal he would take a rest. He wouldn't build another submarine, he said, unless he got "some help."

Papp said he left Canada late last Tuesday night and headed for the French coast Thursday night.

"The French naval boats looked for me for a long time before they found me," he said.

New Press Setup For Quebec Causes Concern

MONTREAL (CP)—La Presse, in a report from Quebec, says the Union Nationale government, by order - in - council passed a month ago but not disclosed at the time, placed the provincial government office of information and publicity directly under the authority of the cabinet. When created by the former Liberal government, the organization was a responsibility of the provincial secretary.

The Montreal newspaper's chief correspondent at Quebec, Pierre O'Neill, writes that the change "would have only secondary significance if there were not other decisions that appear to be directly linked and to have disquieting consequences for the future."

NEWS SYSTEM
He says the government is conducting a study of the whole system of official information and is making increasing use of an organization called Telbec, created some months ago in Montreal to distribute in the province information on behalf of clients—mainly commercial enterprises—subscribing to its facilities for transmission by teletype to newspapers and broadcasting stations.

Correspondent O'Neill says that at the same time it has been more difficult at Quebec to get information from government sources directly.

He writes that the situation indicates the possibility, "more or less remote," that the Union Nationale will create a French-Canadian press agency to act as "outlet for all official information from the government."

Amnesty Not Allowed

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Rene Duro, both of Montreal, president and secretary, respectively, of a group calling itself Le Comité d'Aide aux Prisonniers Politiques (Committee to Aid Political Prisoners).

Mr. Johnson said in an interview Tuesday the province has amnesty powers only in cases of persons imprisoned after summary conviction.

The letter, disclosed last week, said political prisoners receive "most unfavorable treatment in Quebec."

It asked: "Have these Quebec patriots not paid enough for their deeds?"

The letter included in its political-prisoner category imprisoned members of the separatist FLQ (Front de Liberation Que-

Skirt to Here Hair to There

LONDON (AP) — Linda Benson bobbed up Tuesday as the girl with the longest hair and the shortest skirt in swinging London.

Her hair changes 2 1/2 inches beneath her shoulders. Her hemline hangs 10 inches above her knees.

Her main occupation is studying the graphic arts, but she also is contributing her figure to the graphic arts scene and her talents to the waitress profession.

Why such a short skirt?

"Well," she said, "my boss wants the girls to wear their hemlines at the level of the table tops. I'm not as tall as some of the other girls, so that makes me have a really short skirt."

Her boss is Samuel Gee, 42, who sold his British cosmetic business for a reported $1,400,000, retired and then went into the restaurant business. His place is called Nero, the Mad Ox.

What does the title mean?

"I'm not quite sure," he says. "Does there have to be a reason?"

"This is a change. The food and the mini-skirts. My wife and I got tired of looking at one another all day."

Net Fishing Extended

OLYMPIA (AP)—The Washington state department of fisheries Tuesday announced a two-day extension of a number of Puget Sound commercial salmon net fishing areas.

The department said the Adams River sockeye run during the Puget Sound fishery at this time. The department said through Sunday the estimated catch of Fraser River salmon stood at 850,000 fish for the U.S. and 1,020,000 for Canada.

Garden Notes

Don't Ban—Educate

By M. V. CHESNUT

I have been hearing quite a bit of talk around town lately about our laburnum trees, and how they should all be chopped down and placed on the Noxious Weed List because of the danger to our children from their poisonous seeds.

Personally, I can't see this as the right approach at all. In the long run, we simply cannot protect our children by removing all danger from their path; if this were the answer, we would have to eliminate the automobile to prevent traffic accidents, and string up barbed wire around the beaches so nobody could drown.

The solution lies in education and training. Just as our children are made safe in the water through swimming lessons and are taught how to cross a street by the Junior Safety Patrol, so must they be taught to presume all strange plants are dangerous unless definitely known to be harmless.

In any case, it is an impossible task to remove every poisonous plant from our gardens and from the fields and woods and hedgerows, for nature abounds with poisonous leaves, roots and berries. Many of these, too, are not rare or exotic plants but homely, everyday things like rhubarb and potatoes.

If children ever took it into their heads to chew on rhubarb leaves, they could become as violently ill as from laburnum seeds. While the stalks are harmless and edible, the leaves themselves contain a very high percentage of a toxic drug, oxalic acid.

The London physician and herbalist, John Gerard, writing in the year 1597, has an interesting account of the poisonous action of rhubarb leaves:

"One John Benet, an apothecary of Maidstone in Kent, being desired to cure a butcher's boy of an ague which had grievously vexed him, took out of his garden three or four leaves of Rhubarb, which he crushed with a draught of ale and gave to the lad to drink: It wrought extremely downwards and upwards within one hour, and never ceased until the boy died in great agony."

It seems strange to look upon the common spud as a poisonous plant, yet the potato is closely related to the Deadly Nightshade, and under certain circumstances the plant will follow the family habit of secreting toxic substances. When a potato is exposed to the sun, the skin turns green and a dangerous alkaloid poison called solanine is formed. Cattle have died from eating greened potatoes.

The cultural practice of "earthing-up" potatoes prevents this greening; normally, and even green potatoes can be eaten safely if peeled, so the danger is not great from the tubers. But potato blossoms will sometimes set seed, and these seed pods look very much like small green tomatoes—tempting to a child—and I am told that these "potato apples" are as poisonous as the green skins.

Poisonous plants grow all about us—the foliage and attractive berries of the yew, the prussic acid secreted in the leaves of the cherry laurel; the daffodil with its powerful narcotic, narcosis; delphinium, monkshood, the lily-of-the-valley with its powerful cathartics, the rhododendron with its andromedotoxin; the laurel, once used by American Indians as a suicide poison.

It is good for our children to run wild in the fields and woods, and they are as safe there as anywhere IF they are taught never to eat any unknown berry, leaf or seed.

ART BUCHWALD Meets Pensepas Himself

He Thinks the Unthinkable

WASHINGTON—It is not generally known, but among the brain trusts in the U.S. government is a man who probably has the most important job in the country. He is in charge of thinking the "unthinkable."

His name is Jean Pensepas and his work is so secret that only a few close friends and associates know exactly what he's thinking.

How I got to see and talk to him is not mine to tell, but I was granted an interview and given permission to put down what he said.

Pensepas told me he first started working for the government early in the Eisenhower administration when it was unthinkable that the U.S. would get involved in a war in Southeast Asia.

"While everyone else said it was unthinkable, I started to give it some thought. I concluded the U.S. ought to put some advisers into Viet Nam just to let the Viet Cong know it meant business."

"In 1964 Barry Goldwater made some very strong statements about Viet Nam," Pensepas said. "He advocated bombing North Viet Nam. Defoliating the Ho Chi Minh Trail, escalating American troops, and fighting the war until the enemy gave in."

"President Johnson said this was unthinkable and he turned the problem over to me. Well, I thought and thought, and I finally decided all these things weren't as unthinkable as the president thought they were."

"Do you think the president really thought they were unthinkable or was he just saying it because it was an election year?" I asked.

"It's hard to tell about the president. He thought it was unthinkable that the machinists wouldn't settle in the airline strike, and what he thought about the steel price raise was not only unthinkable but impractical. So he might have been sincere in 1964 when he said that Barry Goldwater's proposals were unthinkable."

"But why did he change his mind?"

"I started thinking about it. All those unthinkable things Goldwater said made sense from a military viewpoint, and once the president felt Hanoi would not come to the conference table, he started to have second thoughts," Pensepas said.

"Do you think about unthinkable things after somebody does them?"

"Of course not. Once you do an unthinkable thing, it's not unthinkable anymore. For example, before the oil tanks around Hanoi and Haiphong were bombed, that was unthinkable. Now everyone takes the bombings for granted."

"Then it was unthinkable to bomb the demilitarized zone between North Viet Nam and South Viet Nam, but people don't think about it anymore. My job is to devote my time to things that are absolutely unheard-of."

"What about Marshal Ky's suggestion for an invasion of North Viet Nam?"

"At the moment that is still unthinkable, but just the other day former Vice-President Nixon said in Saigon he didn't blame Marshal Ky for suggesting it. So it's really not as unthinkable as it was a month ago. It takes a little time for an unthinkable thing to be adopted, particularly if it comes from somebody like Marshal Ky."

"Someone said that there would soon be a million Americans in South Viet Nam. Is that unthinkable?" I asked.

"No, I wouldn't say it was. One thinks it is until you study the statements of Dean Rusk and Robert McNamara, and then you start thinking otherwise."

"What is the most unthinkable thing you're thinking about now?"

"You mean if China comes into the war?"

"You're not thinking about using the..."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

O'Toole to Direct

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Peter O'Toole will see how the other half works when he directs his first film, Brendan Behan's The Scrapper, in Ireland in January. Peter, a talented man, has written the screenplay with Irish poet Harry Craig. A major network in the U.S. is angling for a color tape of O'Toole's Juno and the Paycock, the Sean O'Casey play which he performed for two weeks at the Gaiety Theatre in Dublin. Before that, he starred for Columbia in The Night of the Generals. And if you want to know what Peter will be doing after he directs his movie next year, he'll be coming to Broadway for a brief season as Shylock before starting Waterloo for John Huston and the Dino de Laurentiis studio in Rome. All of which will take him to the end of next year. I'm wondering how he has time to get into fights.

Tony Richardson makes his big war epic of the 19th century, The Charge of the Light Brigade, in Spain. With Vanessa Redgrave to whom he is married. Arthur Jacobs, producer of Dr. Dolittle, told me with great seriousness, "I expect to get married this year or next year but it isn't anyone I know now." But Stephen Boyd says, "Never again." He states that there are so many household gadgets they take the place of a wife. Stephen was married for a fast few weeks when he first came to Hollywood. He soon divorced, and has lived happily ever after.

When Lee Marvin finishes The Dirty Dozen, he will be in the mood to prepare for his two-man movie in Japan—a war story about an American and a Japanese. The latter will be Japan's top actor, Toshiro Mifune. While we have had two character plays, have we ever had two people only in a film? Yes—Henry Fonda and Shirley MacLaine in Two for the Seesaw.

Grow Up and Think DR. STUART ROSENBERG

The most painful thing for a human being is to grow up. To grow up means giving up earlier notions, favorite prejudices, previous mistakes, vested interests, habitual customs, outward and heartfelt patterns of behavior. We do not mature because we refuse to grow.

One historian put his finger on the problem, when he said, perhaps sarcastically, but cleverly, nonetheless: "The only thing that history teaches is that history teaches nothing."

This is so, primarily, because we refuse to face up to the need of growing into new ideas and new arrangements of our personal as well as our group lives.

The most devastating thing that can happen to a human being is for him to remain a child throughout the growing years of his life.

We may perhaps be unaware of this, but the crucial thing about totalitarian societies, that which helps it to retain power over the minds of its people, is the fact that it treats its inhabitants as children and prohibits them from growing up.

One most interesting example comes from the pages of a book written by Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, an astute psychologist and himself an inmate of the Buchenwald and Dachau extermination camps. He makes it clear that one of the basic perversions of the Nazi hate program was its calculated plan of making adults turn into children:

"The prisoners developed types of behavior characteristic of infancy or early youth... ambivalence to one's family, dependency, finding satisfaction in daydreaming rather than in action. During the transportation the prisoners were tortured in a way in which a cruel and dominating father might torture a helpless child; at the camp they were also debased by techniques which went much further into childhood situations."

"The prisoners were forced to say 'thou' to one another, which in German is indiscriminately used only among small children."

"...On the other hand, they had to address the guards in the most deferential manner, giving them all their titles..."

"Another factor, contributing to the regression into childhood behavior, was the work the prisoners were forced to perform... nonsensical tasks, such as carrying heavy rocks from one place to another, and back to the place where they had picked them up... There seems to be no doubt that the tasks they performed, as well as the treatment by the Gestapo which they had to endure, contributed to their disintegration as adult persons..."

"...The prisoners lived like children, only in the immediate present... they became unable to plan for the future or to give up immediate pleasure satisfactions to gain greater ones in the near future. They were unable to establish durable object-relations."

"Friendships developed as quickly as they broke up... they were hostile, telling tales about what they had accomplished in their former lives, or how they had succeeded in cheating guards. Like children they felt not at all set back or ashamed when it became known that they had lied about their prowess."

My own experience in Russia, limited though it was, helps to bear out this truth about the nature of totalitarian societies. If you ask a Russian official an obvious question to which he is Where leaders will meet: Campobello, N.B.

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson will meet President Johnson shortly after sunrise at Campobello Sunday.

The war in Viet Nam and inflation, will head the list of items to be discussed in a private meeting at the summer home of the late American president Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The initiative for the talks came from the president who has planned a trip to the New England states for some time. A few days ago Mr. Johnson decided he would like to visit Campobello which is in New Brunswick.

Prime Minister Pearson told a news conference Wednesday he "welcomes the opportunity" to discuss international issues with Mr. Johnson.

"No agenda has been set. But we will talk about all the things that are of interest to us... not just those of bilateral interest but international affairs generally," he said.

About a year ago a similar discussion between the two men, in which Mr. Pearson suggested the U.S. pause in its bombing of North Viet Nam, was reported to have angered the president.

Mr. Pearson still holds the view that a halt of the bombing... at least for a while... would be a valuable step towards a negotiated settlement.

Although Canada has expressed broad general support for the American position in Viet Nam, it "regretted" the American decision to bomb oil depots in Hanoi and Haiphong.

The two men will likely discuss the recent visits of top Canadian diplomat Chester Ronning to Hanoi.

Mr. Pearson said Wednesday that Rhodesia might also be discussed, but it would not be a major topic. Both men will likely talk about the forthcoming session of the United Nations, particularly in relation to the admission of Red China. Inflation is one of the most difficult domestic problems facing the two leaders. They may seek common actions to combat it.

In recent months there has been considerable debate concerning the influence of American capital in Canada. Both countries have set guidelines for good corporate behavior.

President Johnson was last in Canada in 1964 when he ratified the Columbia River development project near Vancouver.

Officially the two leaders are marking the second anniversary of the establishment of the international Campobello Park in the late President Roosevelt's memory.

They will lay a cornerstone in the park's visitors' pavilion.

Lady Bird Johnson will also be present.

Pearson Pledge in Rail Crisis:

OTTAWA WILL STEP IN

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson promised Wednesday that the federal government will intervene directly in the nation's critical rail dispute before the workers actually walk off their jobs.

Playing his hand as coolly as a Mississippi gambler, the prime minister refused to detail the tactics the cabinet has agreed upon to handle the dispute. (See also Page 8.)

But he promised the action would be swift, decisive and within the law. He expressed hope the strike threat will be settled without an emergency session of Parliament.

VIEWERS EXCHANGED

Mr. Pearson met late Wednesday with a group of union leaders "for an exchange of views." A short time before, the leaders had held a longer meeting with Labor Minister Nicholson.

At the same time Transport Minister Pickersgill was dining with CNR president Donald Gordon, CPR president Ian Sinclair and N. R. Crump, chairman of the board of the CPR.

Mr. Pearson told a press conference after a lengthy cabinet session Wednesday that the government "is doing its best to prevent a strike." But he added that if necessary it would call Parliament to settle the dispute.

NOT SITTING IDLE

"There has been no sitting idly by on the part of the government... When the time comes for mediation the government will do it..."

"We will get in touch with the unions before a strike occurs and find out what can be done to avoid one..." he said.

Mr. Pearson indicated he thinks the time for the government to intervene is that short interval between when the unions renounce the conciliation board reports and call for a strike vote, and they actually walk off the jobs.

How to Deal With a Crisis

Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The federal government is considering several alternative methods of dealing with the impending rail strike which threatens to cripple the nation's economy.

Prime Minister Pearson could lay down the law to both sides of the dispute, then appoint a mediator to settle the differences. This could be done without recalling Parliament.

Once the full strike begins, it is certain the government will recall Parliament. Experts here feel the work would go out within 24 hours of a full walkout.

TWO CHOICES

The government would then have two choices:

● It could produce legislation ordering the men back to work for a fixed period — say 60 or 90 days — with negotiations to continue in the meantime.

● It could order the men to return to work and appoint an arbitrator whose recommendations would be binding on both sides.

There are precedents for both actions. In 1950 the St. Lawrence government imposed compulsory arbitration after transportation was halted for nine days.

COMPLICATIONS

In 1960 Labor Minister Starn introduced a continuous Railway Operations Act which declared a strike moratorium from December until May 16. A negotiated settlement was reached May 5 without compulsory legislation.

But there are complications with this rail dispute. Workers involved in the operating trades want more money; they are demanding job security in an age of technological change.

Salaries can be negotiated; but kind of job protection the trades are demanding requires a far-reaching government policy to deal with automation.

NOT THIS FALL

Mr. Pearson said the government is studying the Freedman Report which recommended that government must accept the principle that management bears a heavy responsibility to

Montreal reporter Robert Taylor checks shells

Live Shells Litter Scrapyard

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal police said Wednesday they have discovered some live mortar and artillery shells stacked in a scrapyard belonging to the Alert Steel Co. in the western St. Henri district.

Many of the shells were live, and at least two were fused.

Police said the discovery was made three days ago when a child was reported to have cut his hand badly while playing in the scrapyard.

'Hot' Capsules Found, Lost

GLENDALE, Calif. (UPI) — A vial which apparently contained radioactive cobalt was found Wednesday by two men cleaning up a weed-infested lot here, police reported.

The radioactive substance, shielded in the capped, lead bottle, posed no danger to the community or passersby, police stressed.

Lt. R. R. Buehner said none of the radioactive material spilled from the bottle.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Public Health Service said Wednesday it had launched an all-out search for a missing radium capsule.

The capsule contains radium capable of inflicting "severe radiation burns," the PHS said.

Bomb Found At U.S. Air Base

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — A home-made black powder bomb was found Wednesday in a filing cabinet at the headquarters building of Offutt Air Force Base, command post of the Strategic Air Command. The crudely-made device was dismantled and shipped immediately to the office of special investigation in Washington.

Troops Hit Protesters

PORT CHICAGO, Calif. (UPI) — Several wild melees erupted Wednesday as rifle-carrying U.S. Marines bumped, shoved and knocked anti-war demonstrators from a highway entrance to Concord Naval Weapons Station.

The incidents occurred after marines dragged and pushed single demonstrators from the highway as napalm bomb trucks approached.

In Atlanta, meantime, soldiers forcibly ejected about 20 Negroes who infiltrated a group of army recruits and staged a shouting demonstration. Several of the demonstrators carried signs, including one which read:

"No Viet Cong ever called me nigger."

Anti-War Probe

Lawyer Pulled From Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lawyer was dragged from the hearing room Wednesday in another turbulent session of a U.S. congressional committee's investigation into anti-Viet Nam war activities. (See Pages 3, 5)

Seven other lawyers walked out in protest, saying they were being intimidated and they feared personal violence.

Arthur A. Kinoy, chief counsel for two subpoenaed witnesses at the hearing conducted by the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities, was taken-pushing and struggling with arms-placed behind him—out of the room by three plainclothes officers.

SHARP EXCHANGE

Rep. Joe R. Pool (Dem. Tex.) ordered Kinoy to sit down in a rare exchange with lawyers over testimony given by witness Philip McCombs.

When Kinoy kept on objecting to statements made by McCombs, Pool banged his gavel and cried "you are disrupting these hearings."

The officers moved in and pulled Kinoy away. He returned later.

Heir Stands With Martial Mao

HONG KONG (UPI) — Mao Tse-Tung donned a military uniform today and made one of his rare public appearances, taking part in a Peking rally in support of the Chinese Communist party and its policies, Radio Peking reported. Observers said it was the first time in years he had worn a uniform, perhaps since the guerrilla warfare days.

Standing beside Mao, according to the broadcast, was defence Minister Lin Biao, leading to confirm recent reports that he is the heir apparent to the party chairmanship.

Diefenbaker

Forces Poll Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Wednesday that armed forces traditions cannot be swept aside by a simple edict of a minister intent on glorifying his own image.

No action on unification should be taken until Parliament itself had acted on the matter.

The defence department had recently discovered that "you can't pull the pants off the navy without having some parliamentary approval."

A headlong rush toward unification had started after Parliament had adjourned. This now had been halted.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said he understands the armed forces will get a 14-per cent pay increase Oct. 1.

Perrault, Strachan Open Fire

'Government Sleek, Fat and Rich'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Provincial New Democratic Party leader Robert Strachan said Wednesday his party will combat inflation and seek increased government control of industry if elected in the Sept. 12 British Columbia election.

In North Vancouver, Liberal leader Ray Perrault promised party workers an "agenda for a new generation."

Mr. Perrault was nominated by acclamation to represent the party in the new riding of North Vancouver-Capilano.

He told the crowd of about 150, the Social Credit government has grown fat and sleek in office.

Mr. Perrault said the Liberal target in the campaign is — "A government grown sleek, fat and rich in office over the last 14 years; a government saturated with arrogance bred by 14 years in power. Our target is a government which tolerates frightful conflicts of interest... whose remarkably successful fund-raiser moonlights as a key man on the B.C. Hydro board of directors, the ferry system, and is in several other key posts of influence."

He said the Liberals' "agenda for a new generation" would implement reform in industry and trade, social welfare, child care, old age care, fitness and youth.

Mr. Strachan outlined his party's election platform at a nominating convention at which economist Paul Phillips and in-

"The new agenda of the Liberal government will establish a department of youth affairs, a separate government portfolio."

"B.C. is a young province, and more than 800,000 of our citizens are under 25. This vast resource of youth is underdeveloped," he said.

Mr. Strachan outlined his party's election platform at a nominating convention at which economist Paul Phillips and insurance agent Chris Hukkleston were named as NDP candidates for Vancouver-Centre.

Mr. Strachan said old age pensioners and low-income groups in B.C. have a hard time "just existing" and workers are being "robbed" of their take-home pay.

He told 75 supporters consumer prices are rising faster than ever and continue to spiral even as production costs go down.

He said the NDP would set up a price review board to ensure all future price raises are justified.

He also promised the NDP would nationalize automobile insurance and the B.C. Telephone.

He criticized oil companies who buy petrol-bearing property and cap wells for up to 40 years. He said the NDP favors extensive government regulation of the oil industry.

Two Parties for Bennett?

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett has the backing of two parties in the Sept. 12 provincial election—the one he leads now and—officially—the one he used to belong to.

It has long been suspected the Social Credit party picks up support from Progressive-Conservative die-hards, who are unable to express their own political beliefs in the legislature because they have not elected a single member in the past 12 years.

The premier himself said Wednesday that party pollsters have signified he will get more support from the Tories in this election than ever before.

Officers of B.C.'s leaderless Progressive-Conservative Party will meet in Vancouver Saturday to decide what constituencies the Tories will contest in the election.

The meeting was delayed until the other parties had named most of their candidates, so the Conservatives could assess which ridings they would have the best chances of winning.

Tory president Stuart Fleming grudgingly admitted Wednesday that a lot of Tories will probably be voting for Social Credit this year.

how many candidates his party will field but he said Tories often voted Social when they have no candidate of their own.

"It's entirely up to them... but I think it has happened," Mr. Fleming said when asked point blank whether some Tories will be supported by Tories.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — Chief side School is the site of an open air hospital for special children.

Dr. S. E. Jensen is in charge of it and the camp compares favourably with the most expensive treatment centres in the United States and elsewhere.

MANY SEEN
"There are 22 children in the camp and they have been selected from 200 who have been seen at the Nanaimo Mental Health Clinic," said Dr. Jensen.

"We have all the things available for a summer camp such as swimming, art and music."

The children attend classes under ordinary social conditions. "Things like that help the child gain confidence and it helps us to know the child," he said.

At the end of each day have expressed their doubt as to conferences are held by the the value of such relatively brief treatment. It is generally accepted today prolonged hospital treatment is undesirable for children.

TREATMENT
All the children have had treatment at the Mental Health Clinic in Nanaimo during the fall and winter.

The camp is supported by donations.

"To my knowledge it is the second one of its kind in Canada," said Dr. Jensen.

"I had one three years ago in Ontario."

HOPELESS
The camp is similar to Souders, White Rock, which is private boarding home for mentally-disturbed teenagers.

"It is almost hopeless to get help for a child," said Dr. Jensen.

Neale Denies Suggesting Vote at Harmac Mill

NANAIMO — Paddy Neale, secretary of the Vancouver labor council, has stated an article in a Vancouver paper, carried on the wire service, had grossly misquoted him on a statement made concerning a vote at Harmac.

The article, which appeared Tuesday, quoted Mr. Neale as saying that it was time for a vote to be taken at the mill to decide what union should represent the workers.

"At no time did I say a vote should be taken at Harmac."

He said the Labor Relations Board had "correctly refused certification because of irregularities in the constitution of the Canadian local."

"If there were no irregularities but some dispute as to who should represent workers, usual procedure would be taking of a vote," said Mr. Neale.

"I am and always have been a supporter of international unionism."

Henshaw to Stand Trial

Oakalla Prison Inmate Testifies for Crown

DUNCAN — At a preliminary hearing Wednesday John Peter Henshaw, 22, was committed to stand trial for conspiracy and two counts for uttering forged cheques.

Bail was set for $1,000.

He elected to stand trial by judge without a jury.

Tuesday, Henshaw had elected to be tried by judge and jury on a charge of possessing machinery for forgery.

SIX MONTHS
Beverly Gail Harding, 21, a witness for the crown, stated she had known the accused for about six months, and it was he who had given her identification cards of Miss Brenda Steed, Vancouver.

"They were documents to cash cheques with," said Miss Harding. She further stated Gary Horner and the accused accompanied her on a trip to Kamloops. She is now serving a jail term.

"A lot of evidence has come before the court which was unknown to the crown," said prosecutor A. I. MacDonald.

DESCRIPTION
Gary Horner was described to the court as being five feet 11 inches tall about 175 pounds, and dark.

"I cashed some cheques in Nanaimo," said Miss Harding. "John was in the car and Gary was outside the car," said the witness.

"She assumed the accused knew the purpose of the trip and purpose of cashing the cheques," said Mr. MacDonald.

"The delivery of the identification cards other than those of Miss Harding shows a common design for conspiracy.

"The crime of uttering was complete."

"The crown established the cheques were forgeries and the accused was at certain time in the company of one party who has pleaded guilty to all three charges," said Magistrate Eric Winch.

Red Cross Gets Cash

KYUQUOT — Residents were even more generous than expected in a recent fund drive.

Donations in the Red Cross campaign amounted to $15,665, just exceeding the target set for this area. Many people had already given earlier in the year but made further gifts in appreciation of the work of the local Red Cross Outpost Hospital.

PORT ALBERT — Condition of Mrs. Ellen Troutman, who suffered severe scalp lacerations in an accident Tuesday morning, is satisfactory.

Her car collided with another car at the corner.

Both cars overturned, the other driver was uninjured.

Mrs. Troutman was thrown from her car and hurled into a deep ditch. The car was poised above her, but it was possible to remove it without further injury.

Rovers' Moot Coming

PARKSVILLE — Rover scouts are moving toward this village for the Fifth Canadian Rover Moot, starting Wednesday and running to Aug. 31.

Included in the program will be a fishing derby, a three-day hike to Mount Albert Edward, overnight hikes to Forbidden Plateau and an excursion on the Lady Rose to Tofino.

Daily activities will include a sports program, camp fires and discussion.

As the complete Rover Scout section is now under study by the National Council of Boy Scouts of Canada, three members of the study committee will be attending the Moot.

The chairman of this committee, John Snow, will bring greetings from the National Council at the opening ceremonies to take place at 11 a.m. Thursday.

One of the features of the program will be an all-day tour of Victoria. The tour will hit all the highlights of the Victoria region, including a visit to the navy base at Esquimalt.

The Victoria tour will end with a dinner at Holyrood House when Rovers will be the guests of the provincial government and P. A. Gagliardi, minister of highways, will be the guest speaker.

Controversial Lake Cowichan Road

Crews Will Improve Section of Highway

DUNCAN—Clearing of a new right-of-way for an improved road between here and Lake Cowichan may start this fall.

Director Will Dobson reported this progress to the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Dobson spoke to highway officials, and learned nine miles of Lake Cowichan Road will be re-routed.

Mr. Dobson said the new part of the road would go from Sahtlam Crossing, cut through Faldi and join Herd Road.

A similar route had been suggested to the department several years ago.

Mr. Dobson said the new part of the road would be as wide as the Trans-Canada Highway and negotiations for cutting of timber are under way between the department and two lumber firms.

For many years efforts to have the road improved had failed.

Chamber president Sam Keeble said a letter to Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi urging an improvement of the road between Tansor Crossing and Menzies Road has remained unanswered.

Mr. Keeble said "regardless whether a new route is being planned, we still want part of the old road improved. We are very concerned about the school children who have to use the road between Tansor Crossing and Menzies Road."

INFORMATION NEEDED

Director Fred Green will gather information at Victoria as to what companies are involved in lumber operations along Cowichan Bay.

The unsightly conditions of booming grounds there caused by deadheads and water logged logs prompted the chamber some weeks ago to ask the minister of lands, forests and water resources for advice.

In his reply the minister stated "unfortunately my department's jurisdiction in the matter is limited."

To make the chamber's industrial development committee more effective, chairman James Hawthornthwaite suggested asking the City of

By DENIS DONNELLY

NANAIMO—Realtor Frank Ney and Marine Surveyor Mike Murray will contest the Social Credit nomination at a convention Monday night.

The winner will challenge David Stupich, New Democratic MLA. Mr. Stupich was nominated Friday.

Mr. Stupich won the 1963 election with a majority of only 31 votes, narrowly defeating Social Credit candidate Earl Westwood.

Mr. Westwood will not be running this time.

Doug Greer, spokesman for the Liberal party, says that his party will definitely contest the election, and that a candidate will be named at some time in the near future.

The Conservative party will not enter a candidate.

Mrs. Cornelia Wildman contested the seat for the Tories in 1963 and trailed the field with a total of 560 votes.

Everybody Runs Socred

PORT ALBERNI — New interest in the election was sparked in the Alberni Valley by the announcement of two more contenders for the Social Credit nomination.

Also, the Liberals have set a nominating convention for next week.

Fred Duncan, local publisher, defeated by 700 votes in the 1963 election, Wednesday announced he will seek the Socred nomination.

LONG-TIME MEMBER

The second contender is Carl Hastings, member of Social Credit since its formation here.

Grits Plan Meeting

Mr. Hastings based his bid for nomination on the contention that the constituency is "suffering from a want of change in political thinking and strategy."

He said "for some time Social Credit supporters in this district have been urged to nominate a labor member, a man who could make it a full-time job."

TWO NAMES

The possibility of a three-way election by Sept. 12, is heightened by announcement that local Liberals will hold a nomination convention in the Beaufort Hotel next Thursday.

President George McLean believes two nominees will win their names stand.

BAND REPRESENTATIVE

The Cowichan Indian Band will be represented on the board by band secretary Louise Underwood.

The chairman said much work will have to be done to attract industry.

ANNUAL CARNIVAL

Mr. Keeble told directors many people remarked to him at the recent Cowichan Timber Carnival the event should not be dropped but carried out on an annual basis and someone suggested combining it with the Cowichan Fall Fair, which is always held during September.

Tank rolls in Parksville after barge trip

It Was One of Those Trips —Even Nature Got Tanked

By MILDRED KURTZ

PARKSVILLE — The moving men had trouble with a capital T when they moved a giant tank from Campbell River to Parksville.

It was one of those jobs where everything seems to go wrong.

The 150,000-gallon storage tank was purchased from Campbell River. It will go into use late in September, and the municipal water storage will be doubled.

The mammoth task of moving the big tank, which weighs between 40 and 45 tons, was undertaken by Port Holdings Limited of New Westminster on a bid of $9,500. The tank was safely placed in position at the waterworks site.

First, the truck carrying the tank was loaded onto a Bute Towing Company barge at Campbell River for the trip by sea to Parksville.

The tug ran into heavy weather which delayed the trip. Then, when the tug and barge arrived in Parksville Bay the first time, the barge got stuck on a sandbar. By the time it was freed, the tide had dropped too much to unload the barge so it had to be towed away to shelter for the night.

The second arrival was successful but when the heavy load came ashore it sank into the soft sand and heavy equipment had to be put into use to get the truck and trailer onto firm ground.

A boom boat operated by Bob Hobby of M. and H. Contractors assisted in bringing the barge close to shore and a lifting crane and truck of Johnston Terminals Limited operated tow lines, and later installed the tank at the waterworks site.

A large crowd of spectators, many of them summer visitors, gathered at the beach to cheer the project on.

The final stage of the operation was carried out without fanfare in the early morning hours.

Utility crews formed an escort for the truck and tank as it moved slowly through the village and along the Alberni highway to the waterworks road. Wires had to be lifted in many places and cut at some points.

The tank was bought second-hand for $5,000 and is in excellent condition.

It is estimated that including the cost of moving and rebuilding of the access road to the waterworks at a cost of $2,500, the overall expenditure is only about half the cost of purchasing a new tank of comparable size and quality.

According to a report from Edward Irving, chairman of the village commission, the increased facilities will not cost the consumers any more as the revenue from the waterworks system is adequate for present expenses.

The addition of the tank is a step in a plan to provide additional water from the springs provided the original water supply here.

North Island On the Move Bennett Says

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett officially opens his Sept. 12 provincial election campaign in Campbell River tonight, and says it is appropriate that the Social Credit bandwagon starts rolling from northern Vancouver Island.

"Vancouver Island is really starting to move, it's taken a few years," he said in a press conference Wednesday. "This is a paradise in itself, this Vancouver Island, and we intend to keep it that way."

The premier recalled that crown colonies of Vancouver Island and the B.C. Mainland became united 100 years ago, and said the new ferry, Queen of Prince Rupert, has now united the northern part of the Island with the northern part of B.C.

"Our policies have been good for the northern part of Vancouver Island, great growth is taking place there, a pulp mill is going in and we have a new ferry — there is no better place to open the campaign than Vancouver Island," he said. The premier will open his campaign at 8 p.m. in the community hall at Campbell River, where Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell will be carrying the Social Credit banner in the coming election.

Election Schedule Set

Next week, he will attend a breakfast at the Hotel Vancouver on Monday, for the launching of a $50,000,000 party bond issue for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

On Tuesday, he will attend a luncheon and cut a ribbon in conjunction with the opening of a sports hall of fame at the Pacific National Exhibition grounds.

He will then head north on the PGE for speaking engagements at Fort St. John on Thursday and Dawson Creek on Friday. On Saturday, he will officiate at the opening of the Prince Rupert Grey riding.

Qualicum Beach Club Sets Record with Sale

QUALICUM BEACH — A new record was set in a money-making service club sale here. It is estimated more than $4,000 will have been taken in at the annual Rotary Club auction and rummage sale.

This figure topped the previous record of some $3,500 set in 1965. Proceeds from women's rummage amounted to $1,000, men's rummage brought in close to $300.

Many Moon Come, White Man

NANAIMO—The centennial boys decided to hang these two Indians.

After all, that's what happened 100 years or so ago, when the Ss. Beaver visited Nanaimo.

And if it could be done then, why not now?

The planners thought, what better way to celebrate the centennial than by hanging (symbolically) two Indians?

They got the actors, planned the ceremony, brought in the replica of the Beaver.

In the original event, the two Indians were chased and caught at an area which, in honor of the event, was called Chase River.

They took the Indians on board the Beaver, and the first jury trial in B.C. was held.

After giving the Indians a proper trial, they hanged them, and in honor of that event, they called the place of execution Gallows Point.

In the ceremony on board the new Beaver this week, actors played the scene.

And there were real Indians in the audience. When the grand centennial moment came, and the two Indians were sentenced to hang, a hush fell over the crowd.

And you know what? The Indians blew it. They bowed.

Mixed reactions greeted this trial scene

STRIKE PLAN READY

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson will meet President Johnson shortly after sunrise at Campobello Sunday.

The war in Viet Nam and inflation, will head the list of items to be discussed in a private meeting at the summer home of the late American president Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The initiative for the talks came from the president who has planned a trip to the New England states for some time. A few days ago Mr. Johnson decided he would like to visit Campobello which is in New Brunswick.

Prime Minister Pearson told a news conference Wednesday he "welcomes the opportunity" to discuss international issues with Mr. Johnson.

"No agenda has been set. But we will talk about all the things that are of interest to us... not just those of bilateral interest but international affairs generally," he said.

About a year ago a similar discussion between the two men, in which Mr. Pearson suggested the U.S. pause in its bombing of North Viet Nam, was reported to have angered the president.

Mr. Pearson still holds the view that a halt of the bombing... at least for a while... would be a valuable step towards a negotiated settlement.

Although Canada has expressed broad general support for the American position in Viet Nam, it "regretted" the American decision to bomb oil depots in Hanoi and Haiphong. The two men will likely discuss the recent visits of top Canadian diplomat Chester Ronning to Hanoi.

Mr. Pearson said Wednesday that Rhodesia might also be discussed, but it would not be a major topic. Both men will likely talk about the forthcoming session of the United Nations, particularly in relation to the admission of Red China.

Inflation is one of the most difficult domestic problems facing the two leaders. They may seek common actions to combat it.

In recent months there has been considerable debate concerning the influence of American capital in Canada. Both countries have set guidelines for good corporate behavior.

President Johnson was last in Canada in 1964 when he ratified the Columbia River development project near Vancouver.

Officially the two leaders are marking the second anniversary of the establishment of the international Campobello Park in the late President Roosevelt's memory.

They will lay a cornerstone in the park's visitors' pavilion.

Lady Bird Johnson will also be present.

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson promised Wednesday that the federal government will intervene directly in the nation's critical rail dispute before the workers actually walk off their jobs.

Playing his hand as coolly as a Mississippi gambler, the prime minister refused to detail the tactics the cabinet has agreed upon to handle the dispute. (See also Page 8.)

But he promised the action would be swift, decisive and within the law. He expressed hope the strike threat will be settled without an emergency session of Parliament.

VIEWS EXCHANGED

Mr. Pearson met late Wednesday with a group of union leaders "for an exchange of views." A short time before, the leaders had held a longer meeting with Labor Minister Nicholson.

At the same time Transport Minister Pickersgill was dining with CNR president Donald Gordon, CPR president Ian Sinclair and N. R. Crump, chairman of the board of the CPR.

Mr. Pearson told a press conference after a lengthy cabinet session Wednesday that the government "is doing its best to prevent a strike." But he added that if necessary it would call Parliament to settle the dispute.

NOT SITTING IDLE

"There has been no sitting idly by on the part of the government... When the time comes for mediation the government will do it..."

"We will get in touch with the unions before a strike occurs and find out what can be done to avoid one..." he said.

Mr. Pearson indicated he thinks the time for the government to intervene is that short interval between when the unions renounce the conciliation board reports and call for a strike vote, and they actually walk off the jobs.

Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The federal government is considering several alternative methods of dealing with the impending rail strike which threatens to cripple the nation's economy.

Prime Minister Pearson could lay down the law to both sides of the dispute, then appoint a mediator to settle the differences. This could be done without recalling Parliament.

Once the full strike begins, it is certain the government will recall Parliament. Experts here feel the work would go out within 24 hours of a full walkout.

TWO CHOICES

The government would then have two choices:

- It could produce legislation ordering the men back to work for a fixed period — say 60 or 90 days — with negotiations to continue in the meantime.
- It could order the men to return to work and appoint an arbitrator whose recommendations would be binding on both sides.

There are precedents for both actions. In 1950 the St. Laurent government imposed compulsory arbitration after transportation was halted for nine days.

COMPLICATIONS

In 1960 Labor Minister Starr introduced a continuous Railway Operations Act which declared a strike moratorium from December until May 16. A negotiated settlement was reached May 5 without compulsory legislation.

But there are complications with this rail dispute. Workers involved in the operating trades want more than money; they are demanding job security in an age of technological change. Salaries can be negotiated; but the kind of job protection the trades are demanding require a far-reaching government policy to deal with automation.

NOT THIS FALL

Mr. Pearson said the government is studying the Freedman Report which recommended that government must accept the principle that management bears a heavy responsibility to Continued on Page 2

Montreal reporter Robert Taylor checks shells

Live Shells Litter Scrapyard

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal police said Wednesday they have discovered some 600 mortar and artillery shells stacked in a scrapyard belonging to the Alert Steel Co. in the western St. Henri district.

Many of the rusting, Second World War missiles were live, and at least two were fused.

Police said the discovery was made "three days ago" when a child was reported to have cut his hand badly while playing in the scrapyard.

'Hot' Capsules Found, Lost

GLENDAL, Calif. (UPI) — A vial which apparently contained radioactive cobalt was found Wednesday by two men cleaning up a weed-infested lot here, police reported.

The radioactive substance, shielded in the capped lead bottle, posed no danger to the community or passersby, police stressed.

Lt. R. R. Buehner said none of the radioactive material spilled from the bottle.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Public Health Service said Wednesday it had launched an all-out search for a missing radium capsule.

The capsule contains radium capable of inflicting "severe radiation burns," the PHS said.

Bomb Found At U.S. Air Base

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — A home-made black powder bomb was found Wednesday in a filing cabinet at the headquarters building of Offutt Air Force Base, command post of the Strategic Air Command.

The crudely-made device was disarmed and shipped immediately to the office of special investigation in Washington.

Troops Hit Protesters

PORT CHICAGO, Calif. (UPI) — Several wild melees erupted Wednesday as rifle-carrying U.S. Marines bumped, shoved and knocked anti-war demonstrators from a highway entrance to Concord Naval Weapons Station.

The incidents occurred after marines dragged and pushed single demonstrators from the highway as napalm bomb trucks approached.

In Atlanta, meantime, soldiers forcibly ejected about 20 Negroes who infiltrated a group of army recruits and staged a shouting demonstration. Several of the demonstrators carried signs, including one which read:

"No Viet Cong ever called me nigger."

Anti-War Probe

Lawyer Pulled From Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lawyer was dragged from the hearing room Wednesday in another turbulent session of a U.S. congressional committee's investigation into anti-Viet Nam war activities. (See Pages 3, 5)

Seven other lawyers walked out in protest, saying they were being intimidated and they feared personal violence.

Arthur A. Kinoy, chief counsel for two subpoenaed witnesses at the hearing conducted by the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities, was taken—pushing and struggling with arms pinned behind him—out of the room by three plainclothes officers.

SHARP EXCHANGE

Rep. Joe R. Pool (Dem. Tex.) ordered Kinoy to sit down in a tart exchange with lawyers over testimony given by witness Philip McCombs.

When Kinoy kept on objecting to statements made by McCombs, Pool banged his gavel and cried "you are disrupting these hearings."

The officers moved in and pulled Kinoy away. He returned later.

Diefenbaker:

Forces Poll Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Wednesday that armed forces traditions cannot be swept aside by a simple edict of a minister intent on glorifying his own image.

No action on unification should be taken until Parliament itself had acted on the matter.

The defence department had recently discovered that "you can't pull the pants off the navy without having some parliamentary approval."

A headlong rush toward unification had started after Parliament had adjourned. This now had been halted.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said he understands the armed forces will get a 14-per-cent pay increase Oct. 1.

Perrault, Strachan Open Fire

'Government Sleek, Fat and Rich'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Provincial New Democratic Party leader Robert Strachan said Wednesday his party will combat inflation and seek increased government control of industry if elected in the Sept. 12 British Columbia election.

In North Vancouver, Liberal leader Ray Perrault promised party workers an "agenda for a new generation."

Mr. Perrault was nominated by acclamation to represent the party in the new riding of North Vancouver-Capilano.

He told a crowd of about 150 the Social Credit government has grown fat and sleek in office.

Mr. Perrault said the Liberal target in the campaign is — "A government grown sleek, fat and rich in office over the last 14 years; a government saturated with arrogance bred by 14 years in power. Our target is a government which tolerates frightful conflicts of interest... whose remarkably successful fund-raiser moonlights as a key man on the B.C. Hydro board of directors, the ferry system, and is in several other key posts of influence."

He said the Liberals' "agenda for a new generation" would implement reform in industry and trade, social welfare, child care, old age care, fitness and youth.

"The new agenda of the Liberal government will establish a department of youth affairs, a separate government portfolio."

"B.C. is a young province, and more than 800,000 of our citizens are under 25. This vast resource of youth is underdeveloped," he said.

Mr. Strachan outlined his party's election platform at a nominating convention at which economist Paul Phillips and insurance agent Chris Hucklestone were unopposed as NDP candidates for Vancouver-Centre.

Mr. Strachan said old age pensioners and low-income groups in B.C. have a hard time "just existing" and workers are being "robbed" of their take-home pay.

He told 75 supporters consumer prices are rising faster than ever and continue to spiral even as production costs go down.

He said the NDP would set up a price review board to ensure all future price rises are justified.

He also promised the NDP would nationalize automobile insurance and the B.C. Telephone.

He criticized oil companies who buy petrol-bearing property and cap wells for up to 40 years. He said the NDP favors extensive government regulation of the oil industry.

Two Parties for Bennett?

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett has the backing of two parties in the Sept. 12 provincial election—the one he leads now and—officially—the one he used to belong to.

It has long been suspected the Social Credit party picks up support from Progressive-Conservative die-hards, who are unable to express their own political beliefs in the legislature because they have not elected a single member in the past 12 years.

The premier himself said Wednesday that party pollsters have signified he will get more support from the Tories in this election than ever before.

Officers of B.C.'s leaderless Progressive-Conservative party will meet in Vancouver Saturday to decide what constitu-

cies the Tories will contest in the election.

The meeting was delayed until the other parties had named most of their candidates, so the Conservatives could assess which ridings they would have the best chances of winning.

Tory president Stuart Fleming grudgingly admitted Wednesday that a lot of Tories will probably be voting for Social Credit this year.

He was uncertain at this time

how many candidates his party will field but he said Tories often voted Sacred when they have no candidate of their own.

"It's entirely up to them... but I think it has happened," Mr. Fleming said when asked point blank whether some Tories will be supported by Tories.

Police Union Fights Fire Duty in Court

The legality of policemen doubling as firefighters will be questioned by Esquimalt Police Union on Sept. 29 in B.C. Supreme Court.

An application filed by union counsel Mrs. Marney Stevenson seeks a ruling that the practice is illegal.

Notice was issued Tuesday.

Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant declined comment on the action.

"It would be most improper for anyone to comment in any way, shape or form, now that it is before the courts," he said.

In the notice the union says employment of union members as firefighters by the police commission "is unlawful and/or beyond the powers" of the commission.

The union says the duty of policemen to the commission pursuant to the collective agreement "is to discharge the duties and responsibilities imposed by law upon police officers and no other duties or responsibilities."

"It is beyond the powers of Esquimalt Township," directly or indirectly to employ, order or require members of the applicant union to carry out the duties of firefighters.

NOT LEGAL

The union argues that double duty by the department is legally tenable, as the police commission is responsible for having only the municipal council deals with firefighters.

Earlier, before the dispute went before the courts, Reeve Bryant indicated any legal action by the union would meet with opposition from Esquimalt.

NOT NEEDED

Council had already voted that a separate fire department would be an unnecessary tax burden.

When the issue rose two years ago, a conciliation board said it had no jurisdiction, but this year a board split when the chairman, B. W. Dwyer, ruled that the point was a legal matter.

Vandals Ruin Headstones

Vandals last weekend pushed over 37 headstones at Ross Bay cemetery, damaging 18 beyond repair.

The damage was done sometime between 5 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Monday, police said.

Despite the noise and the beat, only one member of the audience broke for the bandstand: A young girl, she was repulsed easily by one policeman.

"A very quiet crowd," singer Jeremy musked backstage during intermission.

Seat Tiff Miffs Ballet Buffs

By WILLIAM THOMAS

It was confusion supreme at the McPherson Playhouse Wednesday night as patrons milled about trying to find seats for the Banff Festival Ballet. (Review, Page 17.)

Some who had paid the $2 top price for the show were so far back in the gallery they suggested they might need oxygen before the night was over.

Angry ticket holders besieged Jack Morgan, manager of the theatre, who could only explain the matter was the fault of the women's committee of the Victoria Symphony Society, which sponsored the show.

The committee printed pink and blue tickets at $2 and $1.50 but said seating was on a first-come-first-served basis.

By 8 p.m., half an hour before curtain time, the house was almost full.

What really angered ticket holders was that two full rows of choice seats were roped off for dignitaries. The seats were only half full at curtain time.

Happily for Mr. Morgan his boss, Mayor A. W. Toone, was one of the occupants of the roped-off seats and he readily appreciated the manager's predicament.

Mr. Morgan explained, "This theatre has been oversold and now we are getting it in the neck. We have had to refund money to a number of people who have been turned away."

Douglas Mackinnon, 4853 Townsend, said, "I bought two tickets the day the box office opened and arrived 20 minutes early only to find all seats taken. The box office was still selling tickets at 8:30 p.m. when I left."

Mr. Morgan said, "As of tonight we will not allow the theatre to be rented unless we have a printer's manifest that only 837 tickets have been printed. This will apply in all cases where seats are on a first-come-first-served basis. If anyone wishes to offer seats at more than one price then we will insist the seats be reserved and numbered."

Mr. Morgan concluded, "This confusion is just bad public relations for the city of Victoria and it is just not our fault."

No one from the women's committee would care to comment.

City's Own Ambulance To Run in September

By A. H. MURPHY

Victoria will have a municipal emergency ambulance service in operation by the first week in September, according to one of the men who will be running it, Deputy Fire Chief Eric Simmons.

The achievement will end a decade or more of haggling and controversy, often acrimonious, on whether or not the city should provide a facility for picking up victims of accidents and other emergencies and rushing them to the hospital.

The new service will be operated by four teams of two firemen each, and will respond to about 1,000 calls a year.

HERE SEPT. 1

Deputy Chief Simmons said Wednesday the new ambulance left Windsor three weeks ago for St. Catharines, Ont., where it will be modified and fitted out with equipment. He fully expected that it would arrive here by Sept. 1 and be in service soon after.

The new vehicle, for which only $10,000 was provided in the 1966 municipal budget, will cost about $6,000. Another $2,000 will be spent on emergency treatment equipment.

"Our crews are ready to go when the vehicle arrives," said Chief Simmons.

"We are using industrial first aid men who are normally on duty in any case. We have not been allowed extra staff for operation of this service, you know."

"However, these men are highly trained and have obtained experience from operation of the inhalator equipment.

Granted, accident cases will be something else again, but they are trained to cope," the fire department leader added.

The inhalator vehicle, which will continue in operation, made 184 calls in 1965.

For years, and up to the present, accident victims have been taken to hospital in one of the police department's patrol wagons. This practice has been criticized for many reasons. The wagon gives a rough ride, and when policemen are rushed there is not always time to clean it thoroughly between calls.

It was pointed out to aldermen at the time the ambulance issue was at its height, in April, that in an emergency an accident victim could be loaded into the patrol wagon immediately after one or a number of drunks had been carried to the lockup.

Observers of the municipal scene said Tuesday that they believed the institution of the "light" ambulance service would probably be the precursor of modern, streamlined, municipal ambulance facilities with "heavy" equipment such as that in use in Saanich.

Fortune Seeks Oil Fortune

The navy's former mine-sweeper HMCS Fortune, which was based at Esquimalt during her service career, this week will begin a search for oil off the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The wood-hulled ship, built of B.C. fir with aluminum frames at Victoria Machinery Depot, was commissioned into the navy in the fall of 1954. The 890-ton minesweeper has now been reconstructed at Sterling Shipyard Ltd. in Vancouver and renamed the Ms. Oilshore.

"However, these men are highly trained and have obtained experience from operation of the inhalator equipment.

coasts of Graham Island, most northerly of the Queen Charlotte Islands, and off Dixon Entrance, to find oil for Pan-American Petroleum Corp. of Calgary.

While at Esquimalt, the Fortune was a unit of the Second Canadian Minesweeping Squadron along with her sister ship, HMCS James Bay. Both were purchased early this year and left Esquimalt as the property of Offshore Marine Services Ltd.

The Fortune is under charter to the petroleum company. The James Bay has not yet been converted.

Why Do Nurses Leave?

Victoria 'Singly' Dull

By JOHN MATTERS

(First of two parts)

A shortage of single men in Victoria and an otherwise dull social life are high among the reasons newly-graduated nurses here turn into nomads.

"If there were more single men around, we'd probably have a lot more of our young nurses settling down," Mrs. Ardena Simpson, acting director of nursing service at St. Joseph's Hospital, said Tuesday.

And over the telephone from Vancouver came these words from Miss Eleanor Graham, executive secretary of the Registered Nurses Association of B.C.:

"Some of the younger nurses over there can't find enough to do in their spare time. The Okanagan is favored over Victoria by single nurses because there's always something doing the year round."

Both Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals have kept records of the reasons nurses give for leaving.

Here are the conversation topics at those farewell parties:

● Going back to their families. There's a high turnover of married nurses who want to get back for a while with their children, who can't find a babysitter or are moving because their husbands are transferred.

● They want to see the world. There's a universal shortage of nurses, which means they can get jobs anywhere, and they decide they should travel before settling down.

● They want to get in on the

Out door to livelier life

higher salaries in the United States. While the salary is often about $100 more a month than in Canada, the nurse finds out that her expenses have increased an almost equivalent amount, and she eventually returns to Canada, said Mrs. Simpson.

● They want more experience. Peter Blewitt, assistant administrator of St. Joseph's, points out that the system of financing Greater Victoria's hospitals leaves much to be desired in the line of equipment. Many nurses would have no opportunity to get experience with that equipment unless they moved.

Miss Muriel Thompson, director of nursing at Royal

Jubilee, the city's largest hospital, also has to contend with the heavy turnover of registered nurses.

Miss Thompson agrees that young people feel isolated on the Island, and if they have families or friends on the mainland whom they visit often, travelling runs into money.

● A newly-graduated registered nurse represents an investment of $5,000 to St. Joseph's School of Nursing, yet statistics compiled by the Canadian Nurses' Association show that 50 to 75 per cent of them stay for only six months with hospitals from which they graduated.

Isn't that a fast exit for that kind of money?

● On one hand, it is. On the other hand, it has to be remembered that before she graduates the new nurse has been in training for three years, living frugally.

When she finishes training, she'll probably start at $32 a month, will work day, evening or overnight shifts, and will be lucky if she has a Saturday and Sunday weekend.

● And life for the modern-day Florence Nightingale can come close to being a nightmare, as she stands between a patient's life or death, among all the pressures of the big institutions hospitals have become.

Next: More future nurses will be exchanging their university motorboards for a white cap, and what this will mean to the patient and everyone else in medicine.

Union Man Runs in Saanich, NDP Member Raps Socreds

A newcomer to provincial politics, veteran labor union executive Edwan Haw, was elected Wednesday night to carry the New Democratic Party's message into Saanich. The Islands constituency for the Sept. 12 election battle.

Mr. Haw won the candidacy over the additional nomination of Mrs. Monte Phillips, who allowed her name to stand although she wasn't present at the meeting.

Veteran NDP member of the legislature for Vancouver East, Alex Macdonald was on hand to tune up the meeting with a blast at the home buyer grant and provincial parks policies, and a complaint that Social Credit's "get up and go" has not yet been put up and went.

TIRED BUT RICH

The provincial regime, he cautioned, is a tired government, but a rich government.

"In the weeks that follow, you will be subjected to a barrage of publicity by the Socreds which you can only counter by getting out and talking to people."

The home buyer grant, which Mr. Macdonald referred to as a snap political decision being promoted now "as election bait," doesn't go far enough.

COUPLES ONLY

"Why is it for couples only? What about a widow and her son? What about two women?" He advocated public ownership of B.C. Telephone Co. because "the company has taken millions in profits from this province without any effort to reduce rates or improve services."

He urged the convention to attended by 28 people — to make despoiling of the province's parks an election issue. "These lands are held in trust for the future; the government is breaking that trust."

Seventy-five Liberals attended the nominating convention in the War Amps Hall.

Mr. Porteous, 40, an accountant at St. Joseph's Hospital, has played an active role in municipal and school affairs. He is chairman of the board of trustees of School District No. 61. He is married and has five children.

Mr. Preston, 34, is the youngest candidate in the Victoria riding. In 1962 he was centennial co-ordinator for the City of Victoria centennial celebration. He is an engineering assistant with the city. Mr. Preston is married and has four children.

Both men stressed the Victoria riding needs somebody in the legislature to represent the constituents. The riding has been lacking efficient representation for years, they said.

Four Victoria fire department vehicles and several police officers answered a false fire alarm late Wednesday at the Hudson's Bay Company store on Douglas Street.

A city fire official said the alarm was caused by a fault in the store's alarm system.

Beach Boys at Arena

It Was Oooee, Pow, Toot-Toot!

By BILL STAYDAL

"Ooo-ee-ooo-ee," screamed a well-paid young man into the microphone at Memorial Arena.

"Baa-paa-pow, pow, pow," yelled the well-paid young man next to him, performing a little jig the while.

"Mmm-mm, toot-toot," the well-to-do fellow next to them seemed to be intoning.

Their own special sound system caught it up, churned it out in a nearly-intolerable shriek. A defective electrical system topped it off with a steady bass roar and a static-like hiss.

An old croak of, say 32, might not dig the sound, but in its own groovy way the happening Wednesday night at the arena was one of the nicer things
